IN THE BEE TO-DAY.

WEATHER.

The official local forecast for to-day and to-morrow is clear and slightly cooler.

Observer Hagen says—"A shower of considerable energy developed in the Ohio valley Saturday night just south of us and moved rapidly northwestward. Just now it is in New England. The barometer fell here 1-2 inch between morning and night. The conditions are favorable for snow in the lake region to-day. The lowest isotherm on the government weather map this morning is 10 degrees, and it includes only the state of Minnesota. The highest isotherm is 50 degrees, and extends along the Atlantic coast. The highest temperature here yesterday was 36 degrees, the lowest this morning was 25 degrees."

CRANK EPIDEMIC.

An Organization to Kill Off the Capitalists

And Make Easy Going for Those Who Toil Not.

Sensational Developments in the Sage Case.

Another Man the Victim of the Fiends.

He Turns the Threatening Letter Over to the Police and the Blackmailer is Immediately Placed Behind the Prison Bars.

New York, Dec. 7.—Mr. Russell Sage, in describing the meeting with the man who tried to blow him up with dynamite, says:

"The fellow handed me a paper. He was good looking, about 30 years of age, fairly well dressed and with nothing about him to indicate the devil in his brain. I took the paper and read this:

"'I demand of you $1,200,000. If you do not give it to me at once I have ten pounds of dynamite in my bag with which I will blow this building and its 500 inhabitants to death.'

"To say that I was thunderstruck would be putting it mildly, but I controlled myself and said I would see him in two minutes. I was about to leave and he said:

"'No, now.'

"I said: 'Do I look like a man who would not keep his word?' For aswer he took out of his bag a large glass globe. This he held in his outstretched hand, ready to drop if the money was not forthcoming instantly. I took two steps backward and they saved my life, for he immediately dropped the globe and the most terrific explosion followed."

The detective force of the police department and the detective force of the press of the city were yesterday as busy as bees in a tar bucket and all scurrying after the identification of the dead wretch who blew himself to pieces. One of many clues focussed at the morgue, goes to show the existence of an organized band of capitalists exterminators. It makes the bomb thrower one of the band. The identification was made by, and the story came from one Captain Harry Horne, who identified the head at the morgue as that of a man whom he had met several times and with whom he had frequently conversed.

Captain Horne, who was originally interested in Wild West shows, is now a lecturer in Worth's Museum, and it was there that he first met the bomb-thrower in the latter part of September.

"He came to me with a letter of introduction from some person whose name I do not remember," said Horne to Inspector Byrnes, "and made an engagement to meet me the following afternoon. I met him and he asked me to go with him to lecture on monopolies in railroad and shipping interests, which he wanted put under government control, offering me $100 for every lecture delivered. One of the features of the lecture was to be a proposition that all railroads carrying passengers at the same rate as freight, by which arrangement a man could travel across the continent for a few dollars, whereas it now costs $60 to $80.

"He said that all the prominent railroad men, Gould, Sage, Depew and other magnates would be invited to attend the lectures and be convinced of the errors of their ways. In case they did not accept the invitations a letter would be sent to them, and if they persisted in refusing then booms would be used.

"He said he was a member of a strong organization to revolutionize matters in the interest of the poor people. It was a religious organization and would be the largest in the country in two years. God was with it and it was bound to succeed. If anyone of the monopolists refused to do what was right toward people, he would be killed by some member of the organization to be chosen by lot.

"In order to get me to accept the position of lecturer, he assured me that while I must become a member of the organization, I would never be compelled to do any of the killing.

"He said he could do the lecturing himself, but he was apt to become excited and make remarks of too incendiary a nature. This he claimed to have done in San Francisco, and as a result had been arrested three times and heavily fined.

"He introduced me to several people, one of whom, a short, dark complexioned man, with a black mustache and short beard, talked to me in the same strain.

"I finally became afraid of the two men and avoided them as much as possible. One day about six weeks ago I saw dynamiter No. 1 standing in front of the museum. I stopped in a side door and a few minutes later the doorkeeper brought me a card, on the back of which was written: 'I called, but failed to see you this afternoon, Oct. 21. Would you please write me where you are stopping and when I can see you there and oblige, care of Morris hotel.

"'W. D. SOUTHWORTH,

"'No. 11 West street, San Francisco.'

"On the face of the card was printed 'W. D. Southworth, Cornish Arms Hotel, No. 11 West street. Agents for all European steamship and railway lines. Tickets to all points. Drafts from £1 upward payable anywhere in the United Kingdom.'

"That was the last time I saw him until I saw his dead body in the morgue to-day."

Inspector Byrnes late Saturday night arrested W. D. Southworth. He is evidently a crank and a dangerous man.

Epidemic of Crankism.

An epidemic of cranks, on murder bent, has struck this city. The first of these made his appearance in the person of John George Roth, who fired three shots at Rev. John Hall, D.D., the eminent divine. Fortunately his aim was poor and the reverend gentleman was spared. The would-be assassin has since been committed to an insane asylum.

The second crank to appear was the man who attempted to kill Russell Sage. His own terrible death and that of the clerk, Norton, have been vividly described.

To-day another dangerous crank comes on the scene. He is Oscar Weyrauch, 50 years old, a bookbinder by trade. In a threatening letter sent by him to Conrad Harris, a retired wine merchant, on Saturday, he demanded $500 within two days. In the event of its refusal he gives vent to the following: "If you don't take notice of this, my request, you will be next to Russell Sage and I will blow your brains in the air without I hurt anybody else."

Mr. Harris promptly turned the letter over to the police, and it resulted in the madman being captured in a boarding house.

He submitted quietly to arrest, but said it would go hard with Harris if ever he secured his release.

Weyrauch was arraigned in a police court. Harris appeared against him and said he first met Weyrauch 14 years ago in Hesse, Germany, being introduced to him by the burgomaster. Weyrauch was a wealthy bookbinder at that time and a prominent citizen. He has since squandered his fortune in wild dissipation, and lately has depended upon his friends and acquaintances for support.

Harris said he helped him at various times, but recently he has not allowed him to enter his home. Weyrauch was committed to the Bellevue insane pavilion, where he will be examined as to his mental condition.

RUFUS P. RANNEY,

One of Ohio's Honored Lawyers, Joins the Silent Majority.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 7.—Judge Rufus P. Ranney died Sunday at his home in this city, aged 73 years. He was one of the ablest lawyers in the state. He served on the supreme bench of Ohio in the fifties and was one of the leaders in the constitutional convention of 1851. He was at one time president of the State Bar association, and in 1876 was president of the Ohio board of managers of the centennial.

CABLE CARS COLLIDE.

Paris, Dec. 7.—A serious accident occurred this morning upon the cable railroad here. Two cable cars came into collision, owing to the inability of a driver to release his grip from the cable. The result was that the two cars were badly wrecked and that twelve people were seriously injured.

STRUCK ON THE ROCKS.

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—News was received yesterday of the wreck of the Pacific Mail steamer Nicaragua, which struck a sunken reef off Acajutta, San Salvador. She was built by the Cramps last June for the Central American service of the Pacific Mail and cost $300,000.

BUSINESS CONFIDENCE.

Vienna, Dec. 7.—The commercial treaties between Italy, Germany and Austria, which were signed on Saturday, have created more confidence in financial circles, and prices of all securities on the bourse to-day are slightly higher with a firmer tone prevailing.

BIG MEN GO TO COURT.

A Sensational Suit Filed on the Coast.

Senators and Millionaires to be Called on to Explain Alleged Crooked Transactions.

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—Sensational developments in the suit against the directors of the Hale & Norcross Mining Co. were followed to-day by the filing of four additional suits of a similar nature by Adolph Fox, the well-known mining man, claiming the mines are run in the interest of the directors, who by fraudulent means secure large profits.

Aomng the defendants are United States senators, several millionaires and many prominent mining men.

The first suit is against John W. Mackay, Senator Jones, the Comstock Mill Co. and the Consolidated California & Virginia Mining Co.

The complaint states that since the consolidation of the California & Virginia mines in 1884 it was controlled by Mackay, Jones and Flood, and since Flood's death these men had their own managers elected through dummy directors and organized the Comstock mill, of which Jones was elected superintendent.

This mill secured the contract to crush consolidated Virginia ores, and, the complaint avers, the defendants realized from the working of so-called "tailings" from ores $2,500,000, and that between January, 1885, and October, 1891, there was an overcharge of $189,046 for crushing ore.

It is also charged they issued to Maurice Dore of this city 33,000 shares consolidated Virginia at $1 per share when such stock is worth over $2,000,000.

The second suit is against Mackay and Jones for illegal absorption of funds of the consolidated Virginia. It is charged that in May, 1888, the two had a resolution passed awarding them $50,000 for their use, which sum was charged to "fire extinguisher use;" also they received a similar sum, which was voted by the directors to go to Superintendent Satton. By this means the stockholders were defrauded out of $100,000.

The third and fourth suits involve the Chollar and Potosi and Nevada mills. At the head of the Chollar and Potosi are Alvin Hayward and W. S. Hobart, mining millionaires. The complaint charges they have manipulated the ores of these two mines. They have crushed 1,000,000 tons, for which they received $7 per ton, whereas ore can be crushed profitably for $4 per ton. In this way they robbed the stockholders of $3,000,000 as well as of $250,000 in working tailings.

GOVERNOR CAMPBELL.

His Condition Reported as Much Better This Morning.

Columbus, O., Dec. 7.—Gov. Campbell is slightly better, and little or no uneasiness on account of his condition is felt in his family.

SAVED BY THE CHILDREN.

They Donate Their Pennies to Help the State.

The Hoosier School Boys and Girls Want Their State Represented at the Fair.

Muncie, Ind., Dec. 7.—Because the state legislature failed to appropriate a sufficient amount of money to make a just exhibit of Indiana schools at the World's fair in 1893, the committee on education for the state asked the school authorities to take up two collections in the school to meet the expenses of a proper exhibit.

The committee asked each pupil to contribute one penny at each collection, each teacher ten cents, each high school principal twenty-five cents, and each superintendent and trustee fifty cents. The money so collected to be sent to the state superintendent of public institutions and by him turned over to the educational committee. The Muncie schools, with about 1,800 pupils, were asked for the sum of $4,950, which was to be purely volunteered. Appropriate exercises were held in each of the several rooms and the first of the collections was taken. The great exposition was fully explained to the little ones, who became quite enthusiastic, and 4,344 pennies were donated, which is but 506 short of the amount expected at both collections.

Many of the pupils donated twenty-five and some fifty pennies, all shouting Indiana shall lead in the Columbian exposition as she did in the Centennial.

OUT OF THE STORM.

Railroads Have Found Their Tracks—Fuel is Scarce.

Pembina, Dec. 7.—Reports from the lines of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern through the region covered by Friday's blizzard show everything about restored and trains again on time.

It will be some days yet before the country roads are opened for travel, and meanwhile there will be a great deal of suffering in the small towns for the want of fuel.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Antigo, Wis., Dec. 7.—Fire destroyed Strasser's store, Masonic hall, Watts' hat store and the Republican printing office yesterday morning. Loss, $80,000, of which Strasser loses $40,000; insurance about $30,000.

DEATH FROM INFLUENZA.

Hamburg, Dec. 7.—There are 13,000 cases of influenza reported in this city to-day and the death rate is considerably higher, owing to the prevalence of the disease.

VIGOROUS FOREIGN POLICY

Such Can be Expected From the Administration.

Chili Will be Made to Respect Uncle Sam.

A Split in the Cabinet on the Question, With Wanamaker Posing as the Blessed Peacemaker.

New York, Dec. 7.—A special to the Recorder from Washington says the policy of the administration in regard to the Chilian question is something of a puzzle to most persons in Washington, but all agree that some move will be made this week, and that by Saturday night a decisive foreign policy will be put forward in place of the wavering one that has caused no little comment during the past few weeks.

The president and Secretary Blaine, it seems, were in favor of making a demand on Chili in regard to the Baltimore affair savoring of an ultimatum, but Secretary Tracy asked for delay until he could get an efficient squadron in motion, and Postmaster General Wanamaker was in favor of arbitrating the matter.

Mr. Wanamaker, it is said, threatened to resign if a display of force was resorted to. It was finally decided that it would be unwise to have a split in the cabinet over the matter, and it was agreed that the quesion should remain in abeyance until congress should convene, and in the meantime all preparations should be made for an emergency.

This policy has been strictly adhered to. No second message has been sent to Minister Egan for delivery and the matter stands as it did two months ago, with Chili's insulting message unanswered.

In the meantime extensive naval preparations have been going on, and the result is that two powerful fleets now have their bows turned towards the south.

Now that everything is ready, it is expected that President Harrison will show his hand and insist that his aggressive policy be carried out. It is believed that the facts as related above will be stated in the president's message, but what will follow after this is a matter of conjecture.

Some believe that Mr. Harrison will ask for a large appropriation in order that the country may be put on a war footing; that simultaneously with this request he will make the demand on Chili and will consider that the text of his message, and that the two powerful fleets now have their bows turned toward Chili will be sufficient display of force to convince that country that the demand must have respectful and immediate attention. Others think that congress will be asked to vote upon the question whether an ultimatum shall be sent to the southern republic or not. It is believed that before the president and Secretary Blaine eat their Christmas dinner Chili will either apologize for her insults and make reparation for the crimes of her countrymen, or will be taught that in time of peace Uncle Sam has prepared for war.

The text of the report of the secretary of the navy, published this morning, has a very significant bearing on this matter. One sentence shows that Secretary Tracy entertains the same view as does President Harrison. It is: "There are outrages that cannot go unredressed; there are injuries to which no nation can afford to submit."

LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

A Faithless Husband Returns to His Family.

A Daughter's Search for a Man Whom the Circumstances Show Was Unworthy of It.

Muncie, Ind., Dec. 7.—Nearly 17 years years ago Henry Gattrell, a printer, left his family in this city, since when his whereabouts have been unknown to them, and it was supposed that he was long since dead.

Since his daughter, Miss Nellie, aged 21, has grown to womanhood, with a perseverance only creditable to woman she became convinced that her father lived. She commenced addressing letters to him in care of the leading newspapers and job printing offices, hundreds of which were returned uncalled for, but her hope never relinquished, and a week since a letter addressed in care of the Boston Post reached Mr. Gattrell, who was foreman of the paper, and he at once answered the letter, arranging for his journey home, where he, in company with his heroine daughter, will meet his wife and youngest daughter, Miss Mea, to-morrow.

In his absence the daughters have supported the mother, Miss Nellie as compositor in the Times office and Miss Mea as clerk in a dry goods store.

RESPECTED THE FLAG.

China Has Much Regard for English Authority.

San Francisco, Dec. 7.—The steamer Belgic arrived yesterday morning from China. She reports that the sealing schooner Arctic, after being seized by the Russians, escaped and was brought into Yokahama by the British ship Leander.

The Russian minister asked her detention, but as the schooner was flying the British flag the representatives of the government declined to interfere, causing official coolness.

A PETITION TO OUST

The Seneca Company From the State of Ohio.

A Mutual Fire Insurance Company Which Refuses to Obey the Laws of the Buckeye State.

Columbus, O., Dec. 7.—State Insurance Commissioner Kinder formally requested Attorney General Watson to institute a suit in the supreme court to oust the Seneca Mutual Fire Insurance company from this state on the ground that it has failed to comply with the insurance laws of Ohio.

The company in question is what is known as "an old charter" corporation, having been organized and incorporated prior to the adoption of the present state constitution.

It claims that because of this it does not come under the provisions of section 3654 of the revised statutes which, as amended last winter by the Adams bill, provides that all insurance companies shall be subject to state inspection.

Last week Commissioner Kinder and Inspector Opes, of the insurance department, went to Tiffin and demanded the company's books for inspection. The company refused to permit an inspection.

The commissioner and inspector then went to the Seneca county clerk's office, where upon investigation they found that judgments aggregating $4,000 and suits amounting to $7,000 were standing against the company.

It was also learned that suits against the company were pending in seven other counties of the state. The office fixtures of the company are now in the hands of the sheriff of Seneca county, being held to satisfy the judgments against it in that court.

The decision in this case will be watched with much interest. Should the insurance commissioner win the suit the precedent established will bring all the "old charter" companies under state inspection.

MUST TAKE THEIR CHANCE.

The Wyandott County Wheat Case.

Farmers Who Placed Their Grain in the Broken Firm's Bins Can Look Only to the Assignee.

Wapakoneta, O., Dec. 7.—(Special)—Late Saturday evening Squire Rogers gave his decision in the famous test wheat case which had been in court for the last three days.

The case is as follows: Stenger & Frank, large flour and grain merchants of this city, made an assignment a few weeks ago for the benefit of their creditors to M. Brown.

They have been storing wheat from the farmers of this county and when they failed over twenty thousand bushels of wheat were to the credit of the farmers.

But the wheat was sold in Chicago because their storage capacity was only capable of 1,000 bushels, which was on hand when they failed.

Allen Cowen, a wealthy farmer, brought suit against the assignee to recover part of the wheat, but the court rendered his decision in favor of the assignee.

Mr. Cowen had over seven hundred bushels stored with the firm. Other farmers were ready to bring suit but this will put a stop to the cases.

LOST IN THE WOODS.

A Child Wanders Away From Home in New Jersey.

Mays Landing, N. J., Dec. 7.—A four-year-old son of Daniel Hand, who lives about six miles from here, wandered away from his father's house early Saturday morning and is now lost in the dense woods which surround his home.

Up to a late hour last night the lad had not been found and it is feared he will pass another night in the woods. The mother is nearly frantic.

SEVENTY-THREE ARE DEAD.

Fearful Explosion in the French Mines.

The Deadly Damp Gets In Its Work Once More on the Unfortunates Beneath the Earth's Surface.

Paris, Dec. 7.—The report of a terrible mining disaster comes from St. Etienne in the department of Loire and the center of one of the richest coal fields in France. An explosion of fire damp occurred in one of the numerous coal pits in that region, and many of the workers were unable to escape from the mine.

The explosion occurred in the Puits de la Manufacture belonging to the St. Etienne Colliery company. Immediately after the explosion dense volumes of evil smelling smoke issued from the mouths of this and a connecting pit, and in a short time crowds of relatives and friends of the imprisoned workmen gathered about the entrances of the pit and prepared for the work of rescue.

It has been ascertained that 73 miners have perished. The wives, children and relatives of the entombed miners surround the mouth of the pit and the most heartrending scenes are witnessed as the bodies of the victims are brought to the surface.

PLAYED A BOLD GAME.

Pretty Lena Engle Not a Very Clever Thief.

The Hartman Robbery Placed at Her Door.

Most All of the Stolen Property Found Concealed in the Mattress of Her Bed—Bound Over for Trial.

New York, Dec. 7.—It was long after dinner hour when Mrs. Leopold Hartman reached home, No. 436 East One Hundred and Sixteenth street. She left her outside wraps in the kitchen to dry, as it was raining, and it was 9 o'clock before she went upstairs.

She found a window in the back parlor wide open. The lace curtains were held back by chairs. The carpet under the window was soaked.

Mrs. Hartman was startled. She called her kitchen girl, Lena Engle. Lena was so frightened that she promptly became hysterical. But she followed Mrs. Hartman upstairs to the second floor.

Mrs. Hartman's room was in disorder. Trunks stood upside down and their contents were strewn over the floor as if they had been hastily ransacked. Bureau drawers were emptied and jewelry cases opened.

Mrs. Hartman was now thoroughly frightened and expected a robber to spring upon her from some closet or dark corner at any moment. Lena, close at her heels, was continually talking of the danger she had been in.

Mrs. Hartman rushed to the floor above. The scuttle in the roof was open and the rain pouring in.

When Mrs. Hartman was convinced that the thief had escaped she became quieter and made an inventory of her losses. Wearing apparel and jewelry valued at $1,000 had been stolen. The jewelry included two diamond bracelets, one containing 14 and the other six stones; two diamond scarf-pins, a gold watch belonging to Mrs. Hartman and one to her husband, a child's gold bracelet, two pairs of child's ear-rings and a number of $5 and $2.50 gold pieces.

This was on November 2. The following day Detectives Price and Mott, of the Twenty-ninth precinct, were put on the case. They have been at work on it ever since.

They arrested Lena. They were not much impressed by the open window and scuttle. It was wet and muddy outside, but there were no tracks in the house.

Lena had been in Mrs. Hartman's employ only about two weeks. She came from an employment agency. She had only been in New York four years, having come here from Buda-Pesth. She was 19 years old, a pretty brunette, and had no difficulty in securing employment.

Lena was very zealous in assisting the detectives. "Oh! do find the thief," she exclaimed repeatedly. "This worry is killing Mrs. Hartman." She also said she had had a presentiment of trouble. A sick man had called at the house and she had refused to help him. He had told her she would be sorry. Then she said she had heard footsteps on the roof on the day of the robbery.

The detectives listened to the girl's chatter, but it did not shake their theory of the robbery. They said nothing, but watched Lena. But there was nothing in her movements or associations to confirm their suspicions. Finally they decided to search her room. This was on Sunday while the girl was out. They found some silk and satin dress goods which Mrs. Hartman said were hers, and in a cologne bottle a pair of children's earrings was discovered.

When Lena was arrested she said she found the earrings in the ash-barrel.

Tuesday the detectives made a systematic search of Lena's room. They found half of the stolen property.

The girl's mattress had been ripped open and a piece of cloth stitched on the inside along the whole length, forming a pocket. The mattress is made of blue and white ticking, and the stitching was carefully done with blue thread. In this pocket, wrapped in paper, all the stolen articles were found except those belonging to Mrs. Hartman.

The detectives have no theory as to what Lena has done with this property unless she pawned it.

The girl was taken to the Harlem police court and remanded. She made two explanations in court—one that she had picked up the things out of the garbage-can and the other that she had taken them to show her people for what wealthy folks she worked.

The police have no knowledge of other robberies committed by Lena, but they think it possible that the girl would have developed into a second Annie Miller if she had not been caught this time. It is said that she was removing the stolen property from the house by degrees, and she would probably have left herself when everything was safely carried away.

The Crimmel Stock Holders Make Charges and Secure An Injunction In Hancock County.

Fostoria, Dec. 7.—(Special)—The Hancock county courts granted a temporary restraining order last week in a suit brought by Henry Crimmel, Welby H. Crimmel and A. C. Crimmel against Hon. Chas. Foster, W. S. Brady, L. B. Martin, Otto Jaeger and Chas. E. Beam, the board of directors of the Fostoria Glass company.

The Crimmels own $2,800 worth of stock in the company, which they say is very profitable and promises to double in value. They claim that the above named gentlemen, with the exception of Secretary Foster, have wrongfully appropriated $10,000 of the funds of the company in fitting up the new Moundsville factory. The plaintiffs also claim that on September 2 the board sold to Otto Jaeger three acres of land on which the factory now stands, together with the buildings and appliances of the factory, for $10,000; also that the company has about $15,000 worth of material, etc., which the directors intend moving to Moundsville, and that it is their intenton to transfer all interests of the company to that place.

Mr. Crimmel says all this has been done without consulting the stockholders. They asked that the directors be enjoined from further carrying out their plans; also that a receiver be appointed to take charge of affairs until the matter can be determined.

LODGE OF SORROW.

Toledo Elks Commemorate the Memory of Their Dead.

Eulogies by Frank E. Wright and Byron F. Ritchie—Beautiful and Impressive Services.

The lodge of sorrow held by Toledo lodge, No. 3, B. P. O. Elks in Commemoration of its dead members at Elks' hall, was accompanied by the most beautiful and impressive services. Yesterday the "lodge of sorrow" was held in every city where a lodge exists, and the ceremonies and addresses, it is safe to say, were as deeply interesting, and as tenderly touching as any service, sermon or form of worship held in any church in the land. Notwithstanding the severe weather the hall was comfortably filled. On a bank of flowers on the stage were the names of the dead members, James M. Hueston, G. Frank Dougherty, Henry G. Norton, Charles A. Chase.

Prof. W. S. Stackhouse presided at the organ, and the ceremonies opened by the singing of the customary ode, which to the charming Scottish air of "Auld Lang Syne," is at once pathetic and pertinent. The ode is as follows:

Great Ruler of the Universe,
All seeing and benign,
Look down upon and bless our work
And be all glory Thine!
Oh! hear our prayers for the honored dead,
While bearing in our minds
The memory graven on each heart
For Auld Lang Syne!

The Whiting quartet in "In Heavenly Love Abiding," followed Chaplain P. A. Brennan in prayer.

Mr. Byron F. Ritchie in an eulogy on the order in general, paid a glowing tribute to the deceased members of Toledo lodge. He dwelt with tenderness on his deceased friend, "Jim" Hueston, and the entire audience was visibly affected by the tribute.

Mr. Ritchie's talk was as follows:

Exalted Ruler, Brothers, Friends: One of the noblest sentiments ever written by the finger of God in the breast of man, is that of love, respect and reverence for the dead. In all ages, and in every clime that "the sun's bright circle warms" the memory of those who have fallen in life's strong battle, and gone before to the silent grave, has been fondly and kindly cherished. This inborn feeling to us, brothers, to-day, unbidden comes. It allows, and the usage and commandment of our worthy order requires, that we, to-day, forget the joys and cares of daily life, and meet, as here we do, in this our annual Lodge of Sorrow, to pay a grateful, heartfelt tribute of respect to the memory of those of our brothers who "lie full low, graved in the hollow ground," and who, "after life's fitful fever sleep well."

Nor are we, alone engaged in this holy work. To-day, on this Sabbath of the Lord, aye, at this very hour, in every city and town in the land where the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks exists, the memory of honored, departed Elks, is being perpetrated with flowers that are fragrant, with music and with songs that are sweet, with words that are heartfelt and kind, with hearts that are sad, and with eyes that are bedewed with tears.

Our order is a secret one, but its chief secret is how to sow friendship and affection in its members' hearts. It is a babe in years; it is an adult in deeds. It is benevolent and protective. Benevolent, because it has a disposition to do good. Benevolent, because it possesses a love for mankind. Benevolent, because it desires to promote the happiness and prosperity of all.

Protective, because it cheers the weary and succors the weak; protective, because it defends the defenseless; protective, because it extends to all who are true and needy charity's ever open hand; protective, because it is sympathy's child and the unfortunates' friend. What nobler attributes can any fraternity possess?

The order of Elks was first organized in the city of New York, and out of necessity was it born. By a few members of the theatrical profession was its foundation laid. They were homeless, almost friendless—their whole time devoted to the entertainment and uplifting of the human kind, presenting to those they sought to educate, a just image of human nature, is it wonder that they should have sought companionship among themselves? Knowing by sad experience the rarity of Christian charity under the sun, is it strange that they should have made charity the corner stone of their new born, but ever living lodge? Charity, sweet, soothing, healing charity; that disposition of the heart which inclines men to think favorably of their fellow-men and do them good; charity, which allows and compels liberality in judging of men and their actions; charity which is kind; which writes the faults of a brother upon the sands, but his virtues upon the tablets of love and memory.

These actors, doing everything for the world, found the world against them. It did not possess the quality of being just; it was full of censure and reproach. Believing, as they did, in rendering to every one his right and due, they made Justice one of the mottoes of their order. With charity and justice, what else was needed but brotherly love and fidelity as a basis upon which to found an ever living and ever growing lodge?

For an emblem of their order they went to the forest field of God, and chose the elk—timid, kind, swift of foot, but resolute still. What a lesson, brothers, do its habits teach? We should be timid in praising our deeds, because our deeds praise us. We should be kind to each other, and kind especially to the faults of all. We should be swift to answer affliction's call. We should be resolute in maintaining the right, and in righting the wrong.

From this simple, humble origin the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has forward and onward gone, until to-day, it is a great power in our land for good. With a belief in "doing unto others as we would others to do unto us," with charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity as guides of conduct and rules of action, why should it not survive; how can it ever die? Since this lodge was born, four of its members have died.

Hueston, Dougherty, Norton, Chase—how often have we together met? But now call their names in vain. We may call, but they answer not. Their voices are forever stilled, their eyes forever closed. The heaving of their manly breasts is stopped; their ears are deaf to the sound of time; but they still live in memory and in deeds that are good. Hueston was the first Exalted Ruler of this lodge; he was the first one called by the Exalted Ruler of the Lodge above.

Who can forget his winning ways? In his social life he was a prince. In his thoughts and deeds he was as fearless as a knight. In his religious belief he had respect for the creeds of all, and yet was bound by none. He believed, as all Elks do, in the fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man. He thought that he served his God the best who helped his fellow man the most. Such thought and conduct is a religion of itself; yes, it is itself religion. He was my friend, faithful and just to me. He was a friend to everybody; he was everybody's friend. He was liberal to a fault. He died with his heart in his breast, because he did not possess the power to divide it with a friend and give to a needy brother the greater share. Gladly would I give five years of my life to grasp his loyal hand and gaze once more into his eye, if but for one single hour.

Of Dougherty it is sufficient to say that he was a devout Elk. Norton was the secretary of this lodge, and to advance its interests was ever in his mind and thought. He was duty's servant. Fidelity possessed him, and he died with the harness on.

Of Chase, another is to speak to-day. I simply wish to say, that as he lived, he died, with his warm heart in his open hand, without an enemy on earth.

Exalted Ruler, brothers, friends, my heart is in the coffin of our departed friends, I cannot longer talk.

"I Cannot Always Trace the Way," was admirably sung by the Whiting quartet, and Mr. Frank E. Wright followed in an eulogy, "In Memoriam Charles A. Chase." He spoke substantially as follows:

Exalted Ruler, Brother Elks, Ladies and gentlemen—To give expression to our grief and sorrow over the loss of a brother, a comrade who has fallen from our ranks, we halt for a few moments in the great journey of life. We stand to-day in the presence of a new made grave. It encloses all that is mortal of our late brother, Charles A. Chase, a man endeared to all who knew him, an Elk true at all times to his duty and obligation. Death with its skeleton foot has once again passed the portals of this hall, once again has it entered and invaded this lodge room.

At this lodge of sorrow, which meets annually to pay our tribute to the departed dead, it is our duty and privilege to eulogize the actions and preserve the memory of our comrade and brother who has gone.

Charles A. Chase, whose character and life form the subject of our consideration, was born at Milan in Erie county, Ohio, on the 10th day of September, 1844, and lived there until he arrived at the age of 14 years, at which time he came to this city with his parents. His father, Mr. Harvey Chase, who died in 1879, was one of the most prominent citizens of Toledo. He filled during his career various high offices of trust and responsibility, being president of the Toledo Board of Trade for several terms and collector of internal revenue for this district, and which positions he filled with ability, honesty, and credit. The mother of our late friend and comrade, whose maiden name was Atherton, was a lady of character, whose precepts and example exerted a most salutary influence over her children.

The local ancestry of Brother Chase, on both sides, was typically American, being of the oldest New England stock who had lived here for generations, and were among the first of the pilgrims to visit our shores.

When we seek beyond this remote period to fix the nationality of our brother, we find that he came from English extraction on his father's side, and on his mother's side could be traced to the Emerald Isle of the Sea.

In his early childhood and youth Charles Chase was a weak and ailing boy, suffering from a sickness which afflicted him during his entire life, and which finally caused his death.

He died in the bosom of his family August of this year, aged 47 years, leaving behind him his estimable relict, May Frances Chase, and his daughter, Mary Atherton Chase, a young lady of great amiability and accomplishments and refinement.

Not until the Rev. Dr. Williams, who knew him well, on the occasion of his funeral depicted the long period of intense suffering and excruciating pain throughout his life, did his friends know that that cheerful face, that pleasing personality, that gay disposition, hid the suffering and fortitude of a martyr.

As was well said by the reverend gentleman at that time, his constant pain, instead of producing an irksome and harsh disposition, make him keenly considerate and appreciative of the suffering of others and developed the broadest and warmest sympathies.

At the age of 18 years, Brother Chase became identified with the commercial circles of this city, starting with a responsible position with the United States Express Co., and during the many years of a varied career, no more familiar form was known in Toledo than that of our loved companion, Charles Chase.

As I reflect, it seems to me but yesterday that a rugged, genial, social presence was in our midst for the last time; a welcome, cheery voice was heard amongst us which is stilled for all common time; a cherished companion and a brother has left the circles of this lodge and has now joined the Grand Lodge above.

In paying this last fond tribute to the memory of Charles Chase, it would be an injustice to the sincerity of the character of the man himself to cloud the pure sincerity of truth with any eulogy that is undeserved. Brother Chase was no hypocrite, and if alive to-day would resent any plan of praise based upon the theme that he was faultless. But the grand work of this order and our duty here is "To write the faults of our brother on the sands. His virtues upon the tablets of Love and Memory."

And of these virtues our worthy brother was truly blessed with many. He possessed a combination of rare and high qualities of mind and heart that commended him to us all, and made his death a calamity to be deeply regretted.

A charter member of Toledo Lodge No. 53, and one who from its beginning until his last fatal illness kept steady pace with its growth and progress, the well-earned record of his character as an Elk will echo his qualities as a man.

For the virtues which we have chosen as the mottoes of our beloved order, are the choice attributes of Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Fidelity. The exercise of these virtues is what constitute a true and faithful Elk, in outlines just as clear does it paint the truthful picture of the man.

Charity, the constant companion and perfection of all other virtues, was a quality exercised by Brother Chase, as a throbbing reflex and response to a broad mind and generous heart. Though never blessed with riches or this world's godds in any great sense and though at many times comparatively needy and poor himself, his last mite would go to aid sickness or distress—yea, and with a willing hand.

Incidents illustrating the charitable nature of Brother Chase could be recited without stint and many a man living today has tangible cause to remember "Charles Chase." But I cannot pass this subject without relating an event told me by Brother Meken's."

The speaker here related a touching incident of the nobleness of the deceased. His sympathy with the stricken was unbounded and his attention to a Summit street mendicant illustrated how one "touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

But we are told that charity does not consist altogether in the giving of this world's goods. It teaches us likewise to "bear and forbear," and who that knew him could ever say that our brother did not exercise this care toward all mankind, our order in particular, and never let fall a word that would in the slightest degree injure the feelings of a brother. Justice, the next in order, found in our departed brother, a most ardent votary. He was nature's umpire, on whose noble countenance was inscribed the manly motto "Fair Play." He believed in giving to every person what is his due. In his obligation to justice, never was he forced to be cruel, and while he considered pity, forbearance, long sufferance and fair interpretation and excusing our brother, and taking in the best sense to be certainly our duty, yet none were more quick or vindictive to frown upon any intended violation of the sacred obligations of the order or to inflict just punishment upon such offenders. True justice was one of the fundamental virtues of his social life.

Brotherly Love, one of our cardinal mottoes, was a quality that rendered Charles Chase the ever welcome member of this lodge at its meetings, the social companion and most attractive entertainer among his fellows. He delighted to be in the company of his brothers and friends and many a social banquet song and anecdote from him pleasantly passed the hour and will live in memory.

Next to his immediate relations no ties were stronger with him than the fraternal ties of the brotherhood of the order which he loved and in which he died. But his love for humanity was not confined by close lines, but extended to mankind generally, and in more than one case was this shown.

Fidelity, "the greatest of all, embracing as it does all the others," was adhered to by Brother Chase with a sterling rigidity born of the man himself. His character was predominant in this respect. He was faithful and true to his friends. His word when once passed or given could be depended upon with the fullest reliance, and even this condition was not necessary in any case that appealed to the instincts of his broad mind and generous nature.

Portraying to you in this recital the life and character of our worthy brother as an Elk, who ever upheld the dignity of the order and maintained its principles, I inscribe upon the annals of this lodge my humble tribute to his memory. It was my sad privilege to participate in the burial of Charles A. Chase, in the bosom of his native birthplace—to gaze upon his face for the last time ere it was consigned to earth. Could he now but for a moment return that gaze, and see in this familiar hall his brothers united in grief and bearing testimony to his worth, truly would it be a great satisfaction and solace.

But if it be possible that at this lodge of sorrow the note of grief can not alone call together the living brothers of this lodge, but that the spirits of the departed dead can look down and participate in these sad obsequies so familiar to them in life—standing here in the presence of the living members of this lodge and this assemblage, and into the dim vista of the past and amid the features of our dear Brothers Hueston, Dougherty and Norton, I turn to our lamented companion and say from the heart, "Departed brother, endearing friend, you who were welcome so oft in our midst, look down once more and see your brothers here assembled to show you are not forgotten, that, as an Elk, your character will be entwined in a garland of amaranth and ivy and will be cherished in our memory until that day when we will all be reunited in the Grand Lodge above."

"Nearer, My God to Thee" was sung by the quartet, and the audience joined in singing the Doxology, after which Rev. W. H. Sloan pronounced the benediction and the ceremonies were over.

"It is truth the poet sings, Sorrow's cre" of sorrow is remembering happier things."

CURRENT TOPICS.

At Bedford park, England, there is a high school which is being run upon a distinctly new and original plan. Boys and girls study side by side at a curriculum absolutely modern and rational, and the demon of individual competition is sternly excluded. Emulation there is, and even competition, but it is competition between classes, not between individuals. Each child is encouraged to do its best, not for itself, but for its class, which alone receives any honor or glory. Prizes are abolished as being anti-social in principle, and the system of class emulation seems to be a very successful substitute. The school belongs to a small limited company of persons interested in rational education, "and," writes the London correspandent of the Bradford Observer, "from what I know of several of the shareholders, I am inclined to think that their object in investing their money was not so much dividend as the provision of a school for their own potential children when the time came. Meanwhile the school, which was established seven years ago, has gone on admitting all and sundry with considerable success. Among its latest recruits is the daughter of Felix Volkhovsky, the nihilist, who escaped from Russia last year, and whose child was smuggled out of Russia in boy's clothes, carrying secret missives concealed in the head of a doll."

A dispatch from Ottawa furnishes the following interesting information, which will be very satisfactory to McKinleyites, but will cause other people to seriously reflect on the ease with which a great country can hurt its own trade while trying to injure that of other countries:

"From an American standpoint the trade returns of the Dominion Government speaks volumes in favor of the McKinley act. They indicate briefly that Canadian farm products, as the results of congressional legislation, have been diverted from America into British channels. This season Canada sent 3,000,000 dozen eggs to England in place of 3,000 dozens. The market is found to be illimitable. The rate of freight is lower than that across the British channel from France, and the chief difficulty is one arising from the limitation of the Canadian product, owing to many farmers having followed their leaders' advice and killed off their poultry. Canada sent nearly ten times as many horses to England this year as last year. Canadians have lost considerable sums by the increased duty on barley. The result is shown that the growth of the two-rowed barley, encouraged by the government, is going to enable Canada to compete with California and Russia in the British market. Poultry is going to Great Britain in hundreds of tons, in greater quantities than were anticipated. Cheese is still increasing in the volume of its provision for British needs. In pork products, owing to the protection which precludes the American hog from driving out the Canadian breed of animals, our export has been greatly stimulated; and 400,000 more swine are to be found in Ontario alone than was to be met with in 1889."

While workmen were excavating for new gates just above the Marseilles, Ill., dam, eight miles east of Ottawa, Ill., a few days ago, they discovered a stone roadway. Some fifty feet of a well-made pavement of slabs was uncovered, each stone being some twelve feet long, from one to three feet wide, and over two inches in thickness, with a break here and there filled in with cobblestones, which were also laid in regular courses. The roadway, so far as uncovered, is almost perfect. It is of the uniform width of about twelve feet, and is laid upon a foundation of gravel and broken sandstone. The depth at which it appears is from four to six feet. It is thought to have been built by the Aztecs or Tezcunons, who were driven from this region by the Indians.

The only locality in Montana which has been at all prolific of sapphires is the six or seven miles of placer ground between Ruby and Eldorado bars on the Missouri river, sixteen miles east of Helena. Here sapphires are found in glacial auriferous gravels while sluicing for gold, and until now have been considered only a by product. Up to the present time they have never been systematically mined. In 1889 one company took the option on 4,000 acres of the river banks, and several smaller companies have since been formed with a view of mining for these gems alone or in connection with gold. The colors of the gems obtained, although beautiful and interesting, are not the standard blue or red shades generally demanded by the public. The stones embrace a great variety of the lighter shades of red, yellow, blue and green. The latter color is found quite pronounced, being rather a blue green than an emerald green. Nearly all the stones, when finely cut, have an apparent metallic luster which is strikingly peculiar to those from this locality. Neither red rubies nor true blue sapphires have yet been found.—Omaha Bee.

Prof. Rowland of Johns Hopkins university has just completed a machine for the study of astronomical physics, which for delicacy surpasses anything which has yet been made. The machine is designed especially for the study of the spectrum and the movements of the fixed stars, and it is capable of ruling one million lines to the inch. So many lines, however, are not practicable in actual work, as the strongest microscope can detect only about one hundred thousand to the inch. Prof. Rowland has been at work upon this machine for some time, and Bostonians will be interested to know that it is to this that a part of that fund which Miss Bruce gave the Harvard Astronomical observatory for original research is being devoted.

One result of the "Russification of Russia," as advocated by Czar Alexander III., says the Pall Mall Gazette, is the fact that the French language, which less than a generation ago was almost the only tongue of the educated classes in Russia, is now rapidly vanishing, and Russian, "the language of the moujik," is taking its place. It is a good sign of the times that Russians are no longer ashamed of the language of their country, but the French colony at St. Petersburg do not look upon the matter from this point of view, and are now loudly clamoring for the establishment of a French lycee in the Russian capital, to be undertaken by the French minister of education "in the interests of France, which, under the present circumstances, are in great danger in the Russian empire." The minister in question is still deliberating as to the course it behooves him to take in this matter.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker has had printed at the government printing office at public expense an alleged synopsis of his annual report, which, however, is nothing more or less than a fulsome puff for the various projects of the aforesaid postmaster-general, says the Indianapolis Sentinel. This synopsis is gotten up attractively and conveniently, with catchy sub-heads and other newspaper adornments and with every convenience for the use of such newspapers as care to use it, for it will save the labor involved in wading through the mass of verbal rubbish which constitutes the bulk of Mr. Wanamaker's report. But we are unable to find any legal or moral justification for using the government printing office to perform the work which properly falls to the lot of the able editor.

M'DONALD DEAD.

Friday's Cutting Affray Proves to be Fatal.

The Murderous Knife Found and It Belongs to Jerry Coakley—The Coroner's Inquest Begun.

Harvey McDonald, the man so badly cut Friday night, died at the police station at 8:35 Saturday night. The remains were soon after viewed by the coroner and were then taken to Couldwell's undertaking establishment. A post mortem examination was held yesterday morning, which showed that the stab wound was three inches deep and penetrated the lung, causing a collapse of that organ. The coroner held his inquest this morning.

Saturday afternoon McDonald was moved from the stuffy little basement room to the court room in the station, and there he died with his relatives about him.

The young fellows arrested for the crime insisted on the stories as told in the Bee until yesterday, when John Crowley confessed that after the fight Coakley had given him a pocket knife and told him to keep it for him. This knife, he said, was in the pocket of a pair of pants in his room at the St. Clair house.

Detectives Duffy and Gilroy were sent to investigate and found the knife as Crowley had said. It is a pocket knife with two blades, the largest of which is three inches long, and is undoubtedly the knife that did the cutting. Marks of dried blood are still on the large blade.

This knife has been identified as belonging to Jerry Coakley, and is a most important link of evidence against that young desperado.

The coroner began his inquest in the matter of the death of Harvey McDonald, at his office this morning. Several witnesses were examined, but nothing new was brought out except the testimony of Ed Graalman, a son-in-law of Mrs. Palmer, who keeps the Brunswick hotel and saloon. He testified that McDonald and Coakley played a game of euchre in the saloon and McDonald lost. He then wanted to get the drinks without money, but Mrs. Palmer would not give them. Coakley abused McDonald and, shaking his fist in his face, said "I've got no use for you, and I'll do you up to-night." Coakley and the young fellows were put out and McDonald went out shortly after. The young fellows had turned toward St. Clair street and McDonald turned toward Superior.

The other fellows were seen to run back toward McDonald, and when Graalman got to the door he saw them fighting near the corner of Superior street. "I saw Kinney hit McDonald first," said he, "He hit him back of the head, and then Coakley hit him in front, after which Harvey fell. He then got up and walked past me toward St. Clair street, and the other fellows stood there watching him until the officers got him at St. Clair street, when they all went into McSorley's. I ran down to the corner and told Officer O'Brien that Coakley and his gang had done McDonald up.

"Coakley and Kinney were the only ones that were fighting with McDonald, and the others were standing a few feet away. McDonald had tried to run away from them, but they stopped him and hit him."

Other witnesses examined were Mrs. Palmer, Andrew Tuite, McSorley, Officer George Daugherty and Officer O'Brien, but their statements were the same as already printed in the Bee.

Detective Duffy produced the knife which he had found in Crowley's trousers at the St. Clair house and said that Crowley had identified it as the knife given to him by Coakley Friday night while they were behind the billboards on the corner of Superior and Jefferson streets.

Robert Slicker, a grain trimmer, testified that he had been working with Coakley for the past four months and identified the knife as one that had belonged to Jerry Coakley. He said that Coakley got the knife about three weeks ago. He traded a ring for it with the car sealer in the Wabash transfer house.

"I saw the knife about 7 o'clock Friday evening," said he. "We were in Sweeney's bottle house, when Coakley pulled it out with some change. I took it and told him he had better let me throw it in the creek, as he might get into trouble with it, but he took it back. I then got Coakley's little brother and we tried to get Jerry to go home, but he refused."

Dr. Becker and Dr. Beckwith testified to having made a post mortem examination on the body of Harvey McDonald yesterday and found that he came to his death from the results of a penetrating cut wound on the right breast, between the first and second ribs. This caused loss of blood and insufficient respiration.

The deadly knife is a two-bladed jackknife, the large blade of which is about three inches long and very heavy and sharp. On this blade are some discolorations, supposed to be blood stains. The knife is in possession of the coroner who will have it examined for the purpose of determining if the stains are blood.

The inquest will be continued this afternoon at the police station, when the young fellows under arrest will be examined.

THE LATEST FIGURES

From the K. P. Election in Progress in Ohio.

At noon to-day Grand Keeper of Records Court had received returns from 272 lodges on all officers except himself, and he has 280 on that office, which gives the following result:

Grand Chancellor—Phil H. Dorn, 1,900.

Grand Vice Chancellor—H. W. Lewis, 1,004.

Grand Prelate—J. T. Sutphen, 1,127; J. A. Carter, 775.

Grand Keeper of Records—S. A. Court, 1,635; E. A. Tucker, 380.

Grand Master of Exchequer—E. Hitchens, 1,891.

Grand Master at Arms—M. A. Bridge, 1,806.

TAFT WILL GET IT.

Harrison Will Give Him One of the Fat Offices.

Judge Warrington Will Withdraw and Make the Coast Clear—The President and the Silver Question.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—President Harrison has decided to appoint Will H. Taft, of Cincinnati, to one of the judgeships authorized under an act of the last congress. It has been his intention all along to give one of the places to Ohio. There were only two names ever seriously contemplated by him from the state. These were John W. Warrington, of Cincinnati, and Will H. Taft. A few days ago the president received a letter from Judge Warrington withdrawing from the contest. This at once determined Taft's selection, and his name will be sent to the senate.

The president will meet the silver question half way in his annual message. He will ask congress to authorize the appointment of a commission on behalf of the United States, and to give the authority to request the European nations to also appoint a like commission, with the view to an international conference on the silver question. In this way he hopes to soften the effect of an emphatic veto of a free silver bill, which he anticipates will be sent him quite early in January.

BABY MAUDE WARNER

Is the First Little Guest in the Day Nursery.

The Day Nursery circle of the King's Daughters met at the nursery, 101 Oak street, Saturday afternoon, and this morning the nursery is open for the reception of the little ones who are to be cared for there day by day "in His name."

Little Maude Warner, two and one-half years old, is the first of these, left this morning with the new matron, Miss Lottie Merchant, by her mother, who is out washing. It will do the mother good to see, as did a Bee, how happy the little one is playing about the rooms with a rag doll Mrs. Dr. Bacon improvised for the occasion; clean and warm, and oh! so proud of the little white dress she has had put on.

The nursery is rapidly assuming the look of a genuine home. The gas fuel and illuminating gas and the water are in working order, and contributions are being daily received. This morning there came a double crib, with all accoutrements. Besides this the matron's room is furnished, and there are two little single beds. A half-dozen tiny rockers are there, as well as chairs for grown folks, a lounge, rugs, carpeting, etc. Col. Smead's stove in the basement was preparing dinner for Miss Merchant and her little charge as the Bee came away, leaving little Maude hugging her rag doll and rocking back and forth in her little chair singing "Rock-a-Bye, Baby."

This is a noble, useful work the ladies of the nursery circle have undertaken. There is little question the nursery will be filled to its capacity as soon as its purpose is fully understood. Any woman who works through the day can leave her child or children here while she is at work. They will be kept clean, warm and well fed until she takes them away at night. The only questions asked are: "Is the mother really going out by the day to work, and has she no one at home to care for the child?" These questions answered, any child under six year of age is taken in, the mother paying 5 cents for its day's keeping. No question of creed or color is or can be raised.

BRILLIANT CITY GOSSIP.

Interesting News Budget From Findlay.

Fostoria Relief Corps, G. A. R., Will Return a Visit — Stockholders' Meeting—Interesting Mention.

Findlay, O., Dec. 7.—(Special)—The stockholders of the Brilliant City Brewing company held their first annual meeting in this city and expressed themselves highly pleased with the showing made. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Frederick Myle, Detroit.

Vice-president — Chris. Schenbach, Cleveland.

Secretary and treasurer—P. E. Hay, Findlay.

Directors—A. Gossfued, C. Jengle, P. E. Hay, three years; Jos. Wachler, one year. This is the most complete brewery plant in this section outside of the larger cities.

A Midnight Blaze.

Near midnight on Saturday a large barn, rented by Smith & Woods, bakers, was discovered in flames, and the fire had gained such headway that two horses belonging to them had to be shot to end their sufferings, as it was impossible to get them out.

An adjoining barn also burned, but the contents were saved. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The loss will be several hundred dollars; partially insured.

Returning a Visit.

The Woman's Relief corps of Fostoria will return a visit paid them by the corps in this city some time ago. The ladies will come over at 4 o'clock and be met by a committee of ladies and escorted to G. A. R. hall on East Crawford street, where an informal reception will be held and a choice lunch served. Weather permitting, the ladies expect to have a pleasant time.

Stole Her Money.

Wm. Johnson, of North Baltimore, was arrested on Saturday by a telegram from his wife stating he had stolen $280 of her money. His wife followed him here. When searched he had $150 left. He had purchased a new suit of clothes with part of the money. It is supposed she will not prosecute if she recovers the balance of the money.

Lodge of Sorrow.

Findlay lodge No. 75, B. P. O. E., held its annual lodge of sorrow yesterday afternoon at the English Lutheran church. The program was appropriate to the occasion. Hon. E. T. Dunn paid a worthy eulogy on W. R. McKer, the only member who died during the past year.

Divorce Wanted.

A Fostoria couple want a legal separation, the husband, O. B. England, filing the petition on Saturday. The husband claims his wife has refused to live with him and various other charges. They were married at Fostoria in 1889.

Glass Broken.

A $300 plate glass for the new Wm. Marvin block on North Main street was broken by the workmen on Saturday while they were placing it in position. No insurance on the glass, so the loss will fall on Mr. Marvin.

RED HOT TIME

At a Meeting of the Gas Trustees Saturday.

Mr. Brown Prefers Charges Against Mr Backus, Who Resigned the Chairmanship of the Finance Committee.

The adjourned meeting of the finance committee of the natural gas trustees Saturday afternoon resolved itself into a full meeting of the board, and one of the old-time, fire-eating seances was the result.

When the board had settled down to business Mr. Brown remarked: "A meeting of the finance committee was called for 2 o'clock and afterwards postponed until 4 o'clock. There have been published statements, which could not have emanated from any one except a member of the committee on finances, I think, and they were communicated to persons who are known to be hostile to the enterprise, and could have been communicated only for the purpose of censuring, and were a detriment to the interests of the natural gas department. They would have been objectionable if they had been true, and were communicated as fact, and I have been informed, and have every reason to believe, that it was communicated by Mr. Backus, chairman of the committee on finance, and I, as one member of the committee on finance, refuse to sit on the committee on finance with the present chairman, and ask the board to be relieved from that duty."

When President Parsons asked if the board would relieve Mr. Brown there was silence, which, after some time was broken by Mr. Backus, who presented his resignation as a member of the committee. The board refused to accept Mr. Brown's resignation, but did accept that of Mr. Backus.

"I think," said Mr. Brown, "that some statement should be made to counteract the erronious statement that has been made, and published by Mr. Backus; I say by Mr. Backus, because I have been informed that the information was given to him and immediately published."

"Who is your informant, Mr. Brown?" asked Mr. Backus.

"The employes of the office," answered Mr. Brown.

"I would like to have you name them," returned Mr. Backus.

"The information was obtained yesterday that he has been communicating these facts to the newspapers that have been hostile to the enterprise," responded Mr. Brown.

"I would like you to give me the name of your informant," again requested Mr. Backus.

"Do you intend to deny it, Mr. Backus?" retorted Mr. Brown.

"I would like to know who they are," answered Mr. Backus.

"I do not desire to disclose my informant, but if the gentleman intends to deny it, I will accept his denial."

Mr. Parsons attempted to pour oil on the troubled waters, but without avail.

Mr. Brown then inquired if the secretary had furnished such information as was published. He said he had not.

"I would like to inquire if any other member of the board furnished the information?" asked Mr. Brown.

"I, for one," answered President Parsons, "didn't give it out."

"From what I know of Mr. Greene," said Dr. Jones, "I think I can say he didn't tell it, and I know I didn't."

"I am very frank to say," said Mr. Greene, "that if I had given the information out, I could come nearer the truth than that, for I have the facts within my knowledge; but I didn't furnish it, and I certainly wouldn't furnish it to these persons if I had furnished it at all."

Mr. Backus did not answer, and Mr. Brown continued.

"It isn't, Mr. President, that information is furnished concerning the condition of this department; there is no reason why full information should not be furnished; it is always furnished; its books are open; its meetings are all open to all except a certain paper in the city, as every member of this board well knows, and any one having authority, from the mayor down, is at liberty to inspect the workings of this department, and the statement of its condition, as reported in the morning Commercial, is not true. I don't see why this board should be called upon to make a report of its condition, simply because once in a while some member of the board is giving out something as facts, that are not facts. I don't see why this board is called upon to make a report every two or three weeks, when every other department in the city only makes an annual report and it suffices. The common council has contracted debts for the work under its charge, this year, probably ten times as great as that contracted by this department; everybody knows that the water works, during the time of its construction was contracting debts, and every other department has been compelled to issue certificates of indebtedness and make temporary loans. Then why is it that this department, by one of its own members, should make a report of its workings; and not only that, this department is called upon to help out the other departments of the city in their insolvency; and it seems to me to be an outrage, and I think the board should take some action disclosing the author of that article, and make a statement disproving it."

The pay roll for the last half of November, amounting to $4,824.64, and that of officers, $1,230, was presented, and payment postponed until the next meeting, as there was not sufficient money in the treasury to meet the claims.

A claim of $22 was presented by John McGowen through 'Squire Enright, and referred to the manager for payment.

Mr. Parsons was elected a member of the finance committee in place of Mr. Backus, resigned, and the board adjourned.

DEATH OF MRS. LANE-KELLY.

Funeral To-Morrow Morning from St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. Helen Lane-Kelly died at St. Vincent's hospital yesterday morning at 8:20 o'clock. The announcement will be received with grieved surprise by her many friends, who were aware that a surgical operation was performed in her case last Wednesday, with apparent success. The operation was for the removal of a tumor, and it is understood blood poison supervened, causing her death. Mrs. Kelly leaves a husband, mother and three brothers. She was married last May, and a painful circumstance associated with her death is that her husband, an employe of the Lake Shore company, was not at her bedside. He left her Saturday eveningf, apparently doing well, to go on for night work. A little before midnight, when it was seen she was dying, the good sisters in charge of the case endeavored, both by telephone and by messengers, to have Mr. Kelly summoned. For some reason the message was not given him, and he reached the hospital on Sunday morning only to find his bride of a few months was the bride of death.

For many years Mrs. Kelly was employed as cloak fitter at Neuhausel's and at the Lion store. She was a member of the St. Cecelias and of Joan of Arc L. A. No. 10062, K. of L. In the latter organization she held all offices of a local assembly and she was also delegate to D. A. 72, 1889-92.

The sisters of this assembly will hold a specially called meeting at Walbridge hall, this evening, to arrange for attending the funeral in a body.

The funeral obsequies will be held at St. Mary's church, on Cherry street, tomorrow morning at 7:30, after which the remains will be taken to Fremont, where Mrs. Kelly's father is buried.

IN RAILROAD CIRCLES.

Prospect of a Union of Organizations

In One Big Federation—Various Minor Happenings in and About Toledo.

Members of different railroad organizations in Toledo have received notice of an important meeting of the grand officers of the railway organizations, to be held in St. Louis the 15th of this month.

The object of this meeting is to consummate a federation of all railway orders. The grand officers of the consolidated Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Telegraphers will attend, and it is probable that a supreme council will be organized.

The old federation was wrecked during the strike on the Chicago & Northwestern at Chicago. Trouble arose between the switchmen and trainmen at this time, and the result was the trainmen were expelled from the federation and the switchmen withdrew. This left the supreme council in a badly demoralized condition and it went from bad to worse until there was not a semblance of the once powerful organization left.

After the strike was settled and peace restored, a movement looking to the reparation of the broken ties of the old federation was set on foot. The ravages of the struggles left deep wounds, and the factions had to be handled with gloves, to prevent hostilities breaking out anew. Step by step the projectors have advanced with their cause and so soft and gentle has been their tread that the organizations themselves have been rounded up and don't know it.

An important point was gained in the amalgamation of the two conductors' orders. The grand finale is to be enacted on the 15th, when it is hoped that the old order of things will be resumed. The O. R. C. has a membership of 30,000; the B. of R. T., 24,000; the B. of L. F., 30,000, and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, 20,000, making a totaf of 104,000 members to be reunited.

The switchmen are still reluctant, but it is thought they will forget the old score and join hands with the new federation.

November Earnings.

The earnings of several local lines are shown below:

The gross earnings of the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo for the month of November were $290,507.90 an increase of $15,469.55 compared with the same month of 1890. The earnings for eleven months of this year were $2,985,480.47, an increase of $245,270.24, as compared with $2,740,201.23 for the corresponding eleven months of last year.

The Wabash earnings for the fourth week in November were $352,183, an increase over the corresponding week last year of $55,661. For November the earnings were $1,203,980, showing an increase of $127,088 over November, 1890.

Wheeling & Lake Erie earnings for the fourth week of November were $101,158, an increase of $7,141 over last year. For eleven months the earnings were $1,177,399, an increase of $110,233.

Who Will It Be?

On the same day that J. Q. Van Winkle was offered the position of general superintendent of the terminals at St. Louis he was offered the general superintendency of the Columbus & Hocking Valley road.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

An official of the Hocking Valley, who is next in authority in this matter, informed a Bee that Mr. Rockwell's successor to the general superintendency would be appointed from the ranks of the present service, and that the officials were holding off to locate the proper man.

Will Abolish Second Class Rates.

In all probability second class rates within the jurisdiction of the Central Traffic association will be abolished after the 10th of this month, when a special meeting of general passenger agents will occur at Chicago.

James H. Hall, general passenger agent of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, in conversation with a Bee, said: "Indications are that second-class rates will be abandoned, and it is only consistent that such action should be taken, for this reason: First-class rates have been reduced to such an extent that it is no object for people to travel on a second class passage. Under the existing system of operating and making up passenger trains, the capacity is devoted to first class passengers, and it is not profitable to carry coaches for second class business exclusively. Hence second class passengers mingle with the first class passengers and enjoy the same accommodations. The only difference between the two passages under the existing state of affairs is that a second class passenger is not accessible to sleeping car accommodations, and this is being overcome by the tourist sleepers. So you see there is really no necessity for such a rate, and it is only in the way."

Cinders.

W. G. Mason, division passenger agent of the Erie, has tendered his resignation, to take effect December 15.

The next meeting of the commissioners of the Western Traffic association will be held in Indianapolis December 15.

Cyrus Locke, engineer on the Lake Shore, is laying nursing one of his legs, which was badly squeezed in a small wreck on that road near Sandusky Friday.

The Columbus, Shawnee & Hocking earned $315,109.24 during the past five months of the present year, against $160,025.50 for the corresponding five months of last year; the increase of $155,083.74 being equivalent to 97.9 per cent.

TOLEDO, OHIO, DECEMBER 7, 1891.

Mr. Griffin's pretty face was pictured in the big Sunday papers yesterday. Hope it will appear again next month as Speaker Griffin.

At twelve o'clock noon to-day, Calvin S. Brice became Senator Brice. And he hails from northwestern Ohio. Now let Rome howl again.

The present United States senate consists of forty-seven republicans, thirty-nine democrats and two alliance men. The republican majority is too small to be of much partisan benefit.

There are a sufficient number of connections on the city natural gas line to make the plant profitable if the gas holds out. So there is no occasion for worrying at present. Kind nature may provide an ample supply.

This is a fact: There is not a republican newspaper in the whole United States, outside of Ohio, that espouses Mr. Foraker's cause in the present senatorial contest. Rather rough on a man who has four times been a candidate for governor of Ohio.

A dead lock in the election of a speaker is probable. Balloting was resumed this morning and the lines remain about the same as on Saturday night. The candidates are all able exponents of the principles of their party, are representative American citizens, and either would make a creditable and satisfactory speaker. The contest is good natured.

The city of Minneapolis bids for other distinction besides the republican national convention. It will send a ship load of flour, 6,000,000 pounds, worth over $100,000, to the famine stricken regions of Russia. The Minneapolis millers will give twenty-five carloads, and the remainder the 5,000 millers of the country will contribute. And Minneapolis will have the honor of originating the project and managing the donation.

Bishop Phillips Brooks is as liberal in his interpretation of creeds, as was Rector Phillips Brooks, and he seems not to care who knows it. In an ordination sermon one day last week he said:

"All creeds are at best only formulas, putting into words the best knowledge we have of God's nature. We know Christ but imperfectly, and yet we know the true Christ, if not the whole Christ. In view of these thoughts I realize that although other men's views may sometimes differ from mine, they may none the less be true, inasmuch as our best knowledge is but partial."

The world's fair committees abroad are met with smiles and banquets and come home with reasonable assurances of the success of their missions, but the consuls at the different ports, do not tell exactly the same story. They hear the talk when there are no "visitors" present and the summing up of the matter is, that in every consideration of interest and appropriation, the McKinley law is brought up as a bar to progress. What need of exhibiting in a country, they ask, which enacts laws against trade with us? The amount of it is the McKinley law has engendered distrust and unfriendly feeling for us abroad and in consequence of its extreme measures the United States has lost much of its high character as the foremost Christian country of the world.

"Our Chauncey" has been saying some things in his speechifying that the high-tax republican organs are hastening to explain—this, for instance:

Taxes always run downward until they reach the bottom. The unfortunate people found at the bottom have to pay. The landlord shifts the taxes to the tenant, the tenant to things he sells. The grocer, the dry goods dealer, the general trader of all descriptions regulate prices on the basis of their necessary expenses. High taxes increase these necessary expenses, and to meet them a larger profit is put on goods.

To be sure, editors of democratic newspapers have said the same thing and proven it by practical illustration, only to meet unsupported contradiction from their opponents, but for the Sir Oracle of the party to deliberately declare his conversion, is the noticeable thing about the repetition of the axiomatic truth. The worried explaines are saying it relates not at all to the tariff argument, but to taxation "in a broad and general sense."

It is not a matter of bibical or profane history that Jonah prepared himself for a picnic when he made that exploring expedition within the internal economy of the whale. We are credibly informed what became of Jonah, but the whale dropped back into the salty deep and never more was heard of until last Saturday. Some fishermen off the Delaware coast came upon a big sperm whale on the reefs, not exactly water-logged, but disagreeably land-locked. They made fast, gave his leviathanic soul passports and made saleable product of his carcass. Now, those simple minded fishermen are American citizens of truth and veracity, and their statements must not be impeached. They declare with criss-cross, hope-to-goodness emphasis, that safely stored on an upper shelf of the whale's stomach were several champagne bottles and an uncorked gallon jug of old rye, the latter labeled "for Jonah." Thus, after the lapse of ages our ancient friend's long-lost abiding place has been found. Poor Jonah, that he didn't stay long enough to uncork his jug.

The death of Judge Ranney in Cleveland, removes one of the ablest lawyers from the Ohio bar and one of the grandest statesmen from the ranks of democracy. He lived full seventy-three years in northern Ohio. As far back as 1838 he was a law partner of Ben Wade, in Ashtabula county. He was a member of the convention which framed the present constitution of Ohio and in 1857 was elected to the supreme bench of the state. Without disparagement to the other great lights of the law, it is just to say that the supreme bench of Ohio never was graced with an abler jurist than in the person of Rufus P. Ranney. He was several times a candidate for congressional honors, but living on the Reserve, his party was in a hopeless minority. In 1859 he was the democratic candidate for governor, his opponent being Wm. Dennison, the first of Ohio's war governors. The two candidates made a joint canvass, and the debates of that memorable campaign are familiar to the older generation. They were able, forceful and brilliant. It was one of the best political campaigns in the history of the state. Mr. Ranney enjoyed the respect of the people of Ohio to a large degree and his death will be universally regretted. He was one of Ohio's great sons.

The natural gas trustees have been so peaceably-minded for several months that the violent outbreak of wrath on Saturday was surprising. The members are certainly old enough to put off boyish things, and, between the two who generally quarrel, the hate of other years should not be allowed to influence their conduct as public officials. Mr. Brown resigned as a member of the finance committee. The resignation was not accepted. Mr. Backus also resigned from the same committee. His resignation was accepted.

The trouble on Saturday grew out of some newspaper statements that were not warranted by the facts, and, as the Bee gave publicity to the statement, it now as promptly corrects itself and the statement that the December receipts have been anticipated to meet the refunding demands, The statement is entirely incorrect. In this connection it is only proper to say that the authority for the original publication was deemed reliable and trustworthy. The Bee has never misrepresented the gas situation. Some things of an unpleasant nature have been printed but they have been for the good of the city; and even sooner than anticipated, statements are verified and predictions proven true. The project is a problem which is in a fair way of early solution.

The necessary qualifications for speaker of the house are enumerated thus by Harper's Weekly: "Profound knowledge of the rules, a disposition to interpret them fairly, inflexible integrity, large public experience, quickness, courtesy, courage, good humor and above all a tranquil and judicial temperament. If he is worthy the place, like the just judge, when he takes his seat in the chair he leaves party behind."

To point its meaning Harper's Weekly cites the action of the democratic speaker, Randall, in 1877, when by voting as a mere partisan he would have precipitated a catastrophe. "In that emergency," says Mr. Curtis, "Mr. Tilden and Mr. Randall were patriots not partisans."

Quoting further, directly, regarding the power of the speaker:

Supported by a party majority, like Mr. Reed in the last congress, he may exercise arbitrary powers. Mr. Reed's theory was apparently that the country loves pluck, and that a display of mastery in the speaker's chair would be exceedingly impressive and popular. The country does love pluck, but it loves fair play better, and the despotism of the speaker and of the majority in the last congress affected the country as the old slave-holding congressional despotism affected it forty years ago. At that time it strengthened the conviction and the party which excluded the despotic majority from power for more than a quarter of a century. It is by no means the McKinley tariff only which has given the democratic party a dangerously large majority in the new house. It was the gross abuse of the power of the majority in the last house.

The new democratic speaker has grand opportunity to make a record for himself, the more that his predecessor rendered himself obnoxious to the better men of all parties.

Just Imagine It.

The Commercial Gazette ignorantly said of Mr. Sherman's home papers, that none support him. The Herald, which is the only paper known to the press of the state, edited by Mr. Harn, is a most decided advocate of Mr. Sherman.—Journal.

What! The Mansfield News, edited by W. S. Cappeller, Foraker's railroad commissioner and ex-chairman of the republican state committee, is not "known to the press of the state!" Imagine the sardonic smile on Cap's face when he reads this.—Dayton Times.

'Twas Ever Thus.

Chauncey Depew eagerly seized an occasion Wednesday to say a few warm words for President Harrison, declaring him to be a statesman of marked ability and by no means the cold and selfish man he has commonly been supposed to be. But then Mr. Depew went on to say that for himself he had always been a Blaine man, and that Blaine could unquestionably get the nomination if he desired it. It was ever thus. Harrison gets the soft words, but Blaine gets the butter for his parsnips.—Chicago Times.

Name the Twenty, Please.

Twenty men in Toledo pay more taxes than 8,000 of the comparatively poor wage workers. Their wealth aggregates $30,000,000, but the combination can show up, among them all, only 10 school children. It is an illustration of the law of compensation that a portion of the wealth of these men goes to educate the 32,000 children of the 8,000 workingmen.—Kansas City Star.

A Kansas Calamity.

A Cowley county farmer raised a field of popcorn and stored it in a barn. The barn took fire and the corn began to pop and filled a ten-acre field. An old mare in a neighboring pasture had defective eyesight, saw the corn, thought it was snow, and lay and froze to death.—Wellington (Ks.) Voice.

A Safe Prediction.

Bradstreet's speaks of "the almost certain probability of foreign hides being placed on the dutiable list." That would mean the absolutely certain probability that Benjamin Harrison would get very few electoral votes from New England.—Providence Journal.

And Pennsylvania Voters Back Him.

Generally speaking there is plenty of room on top, but it doesn't do others much good as long as Quay chooses to remain there in Pennsylvania politics.—Philadelphia Times.

AN INTERESTING POINT.

Abuse in Court Cannot Be Construed as Libel.

London, Dec. 7.—Prof. Roberts, of Bath college, whose name was apparently used most unjustly in connection with the recent Russell v Russell divorce proceedings, has been advised by counsel that an action for slander against Countess Russell could not be successfully brought unless the statements she made are repeated outside of the court.

Prof. Roberts has the sympathy of the public. The general opinion is that there is not the slightest foundation for the serious allegations made against him by Countess Russell.

The tariff pirates, who poured some of their ill-gotten gains into Ohio this year to save their champion, and thereby lost Iowa and Massachusetts, are not pleased with the general result. McKinley as governor is not worth what he cost them. SIR EDWIN ARNOLD

At Wheeler's Saturday Night—A Choice Entertainment.

Toledo is one of the favored cities of the country in that it is one of the comparatively few privileged to entertain so distinguished a guest as Edwin Arnold, the poet, the journalist, the friend of our country, "the lover of India and the Indian peoples," the patriot and philanthropist, the cosmopolitan in letters, society, politics and religion. And to the good offices of the Y. M. C. A. are we indebted for this distinction. To hear the reading of some of the most delicious poetry that the English language has yet been fashioned to express, by the man who was inspired to put it into form, was an event in the lives of poesy lovers. No trained elocutionist with studied gestures and inflections could have moved his listeners as did the soft voice and easy, unaffected manner of the author. He spoke from the heart to the heart, and won a somewhat cold and questioning audience into the warmest sympathy and appreciation. The climax in the heroic poems thrilled the senses like strains of music, overpoweringly sweet. It was the influence of an uncommon fine soul, the presence of true genius that lifted his auditors to the full enjoyment of the rare occasion. Those who heard will always feel the richer for it. Earth is a holier place, and men and women who inhabit it are nobler creatures than before. There are truths in all religions, and the brotherhood of man is not limited by the boundaries of any sea or confined to any favored domain.

The Y. M. C. A. has done well for us, and the expense account so nearly balances, the association is well satisfied. As one of them puts it, "the only ones who are dissatisfied are those who did not hear him." The Bee has often commended, and again takes occasion to do so, the high order of entertainments brought here by the Y. M. C. A., and rejoices that the fact is so well appreciated.

A number of ladies and gentlemen had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Arnold in the green parlor at the close of the entertainment, and found him the easy, affable, graceful gentleman his stage presence indicates. He spoke enthusiastically of his American audiences, and the pleasure their intelligent attention gave him during the course of his recitations. Sir Edwin's already large reading public will greatly increase in numbers in consequence of his advent among us.

REV. D. M. FISK

Talks Interestingly at the First Congregational Church.

There was a large attendance at the First Congregational church yesterday morning, and the audience was well repaid. Rev. D. M. Fisk took for his subject, "Head Conviction—Heart Adoption," and earnestly contended for two facts:

First, that the conviction of men in respect to God, righteousness and personal duty, has with most men already ceased to be simply a belief, it has become a recognized fact—a matter of sight, not faith.

Second, that truth, however well known, becomes vital only when accepted by the whole nature—man must believe "with the heart" unto righteousness. The assent of doing only, secures complete living. Moral truths are no more to be denied than mathematical truths.

God has cut off no province of his expressed will as "moral," where that will (wisdom) can be safely ignored or defiantly nullified, fire burns, water drowns, ingratitude hurts, sin enslaves, everywhere and always. Gravity and lying are alike under law. These facts are not to be taken on credit, they were long ago recognized as a part of the calm order of ascertained truth. The wise man orders his life according to fact. When Paul said "The wages of sin is death," it was so, not because Paul said so, not because it was in the Bible, but because it was always so—always will be. Revelation may have told it most clearly, but it only told a world old fact.

Before the Bible was written, this was a moral universe. Moral law is as natural between beings, as gravity between stones. This universe is so made that nobody can perfect self, or be truly happy, without supreme love to God, and sacrifice for man.

No man can dig deep without running onto God and his truth. This was illustrated from the best thought of ancient sages and modern thinkers.

THE T. T. M. A.

Meet in Annual Session—Election of Officers.

The jolly traveling men who make Toledo their headquarters and are united in a society known as the Toledo Traveling Men's association, held their annual meeting on Saturday evening in the trading room of the Produce Exchange, about 200 members being present.

Reports of President Ensworth and Secretary Dan Caine were submitted, showing the association to be in excellent condition.

Several amendments to the constitution were considered satisfactorily to the membership, and the election of officers took place, resulting as follows:

President—E. B. Ensworth.
First vice-president—J. A. Hawthorne.
Second vice-president—H. R. Felker.
Secretary and treasurer—D. J. Caine.
Standard-bearer—Frank Houk, Cleveland.
Directors—N. Kaufman, J. W. Stophlet, C. H. Russell, Elisha Davis, Toledo; A. R Walters, Fort Wayne, Ind.
Medical director—N. J. Andrews.

Messrs. Chris. Gerber and Richard Towdsen were elected as honorary members.

After attending to some routine business the boys smoked with the compliments of Messrs. Leland, Smith & Co., to which firm thanks were extended.

SERIES OF SERMONS

By Rev. Wm. Burns at St. Francis de Sales Church.

Rev. Wm. Burns, recently from England, and newly appointed pastor of St. Joseph's church, is delivering a series of interesting advent sermons at St. Francis de Sales church. Last evening every seat in the commodious edifice was occupied and the learned divine preached an instructive sermon on the duties of man to God.

Last evening's was the second of the series, and he spoke with an earnestness and eloquence that riveted the closest attention of his auditors. He drew a comparison between the temptations and fascinations that beset men in this and European countries. The wonderful progress and prosperity of this country, he said, had a tendency to make men turn from rightful allegiance to God and God's laws to the worship of other idols. This city of Toledo, a comparative few years ago but a village, was an illustration of the average great progress. It was just at the period when a man or a city is emerging into maturity—into manhood, that the great temptation to wander into paths dangerous and dread came. He spoke briefly of the Catholic church, which, he said, was keeping pace with the progress of the country.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Snow Ordinance.

To the Editor—Toledo, with its magnificent distances, never can be governed by a snow cleaning ordinance, for its sidewalks, until all lots are occupied by resident owners or tenants. Only a few persons can clean their walks when notified by the policeman on the beat. In some instances the sole occupants of houses where walks should be cleaned, are aged and infirm women, who cannot sally forth in snow storm to get some one to clean the walks. Whole squares are in some cases owned by non-resident persons, who cannot be reached. The city never cleans the crosswalks and so miles of streets are uncleaned of snow.

Now, Mr. Editor, the city can better do this work than the individual. In every engine house are horses and men who have a large amount of time. If one snow shovel run by horse power were placed in every ward engine house, the streets of that special ward could be cleaned of snow in two hours, and immense public comfort would be the result. Only one man would be needed and the force of the fire department would suffer no inconvenience as there is seldom a severe fire when roofs and streets are covered with snow. Will the municipal authorities kindly consider this proposition of

THE NEW FIFTH

Presbyterian Church Dedicated With Appropriate Exercises.

The new Fifth Presbyterian church, corner Monroe and Bancroft streets, was dedicated yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Although the weather kept many away, the church was comfortably filled. The congregation was all attention during Prof. Willis S. Craig's eloquent discourse, his text being taken from Kings, 7:57. He told how to build up a successful church, maintaining "that universal cooperation was the way, in which the greatest benefits could be derived." He then told how the tabernacle was built in the wilderness, how each one, and in what manner, they labored to have a place of worship, and how finally "the treasurer had to call them to a halt," for they had more than they needed.

Prof. Craig was assisted in the dedicatory exercises by the pastor, Rev. S. D. Conger, Rev. J. A. P. McGaw, Rev. B. K. Ormond and Rev. G. H. Priddy, of the Monroe street M. E. church.

Subscriptions were then promised to the amount of $2,073, leaving a debt of about $900, which will probably be raised among the "Father churches."

The church is a decidedly artistic structure and has a most desirable location. The interior is modern and the furnishings exceptionally nice. The chandeliers are very pretty and are wired for electricity. The carpet, the chairs, in fact everything is new, pure and worthy the holy dedications received yesterday.

The church choir deserves mention, as it is composed of a number of the young people, who meet and prepare anthems for the different services without even a leader and their music is worthy of praise.

The pastor, Rev. S. D. Conger, who has toiled with the congregation since they first attempted to hold church services in the hall at Auburndale is a broad, intellectual man, and those who hear one of his sermons seldom fail to hear another.

The trustees of the church are M. C. Smith, C. H. Fralic, F. G. Wallace, A. J. Black, S. D. Skinner. The building committee consisted of Mr. Van Hellen, Mr. Provost, G. Williston, C. S. Fralic, M. C. Smith, H. S. Blaine and L. K. Parks.

Prof. Craig, who preached the dedication sermon, is a professor in the McCormick Theological seminary of Chicago, where Rev. S. D. Conger was a student.

SOME NOVEMBER HAPPENINGS.

In Harper's Young People the following events, connected with the month just passed, are rehearsed by Kirk Monroe:

On Nov. 9, 1620, the weary wave-tossed pilgrims on board the brave little Mayflower caught their first glimpse of the New England coast. A year later Gov. Bradford issued the first Thanksgiving proclamation, thus instituting a festival which, after being confined for more than two hundred years to New England, at length became national in its character, and is now observed on the last Thursday of each November throughout the length and breadth of our land.

Another of our notional days, that on which we honor the memories of those who died for their country's sake, was also first observed in November. Although Memorial Day now comes on the 30th of May, the first visiting and decoration of our soldiers' graves was on the occasion of the dedication of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg in November, 1863. In the same month of the same year were fought the terrible battles of Missionary Ridge and Lookout mountain ("the battle above the clouds") just outside of Chattanooga. At the same time the siege of Knoxville was in progress, and the month was filled with events of thrilling interest from its first day to its last.

In one sad November during the Revolution the American army was driven from its last stronghold in the vicinity of New York city, while a joyous November sees later witnessed the evacuation by British troops of the same city, now become their last stronghold in the land they had hoped to conquer.

All the Young People readers in Ohio and Washington should know and remember that their states were admitted to the Union in November, though the former is eighty-seven years older as a state than the one that only came in two years ago.

In this month, nineteen years ago, the city of Boston was the scene of a conflagration so terrible that it burned over sixty acres of massive stone, brick and iron buildings in the very business heart of the community, and destroyed $70,000,000 of property before its awful fury was stayed.

A most notable November in our history was that one in 1765, the first day of which was observed throughout the thirteen colonies as a period of mourning on account of the going into effect of the hated Stamp Act. It increased the burden of taxation upon those who had no voice in their own government, and aroused them to such a sense of injustice that ten years later they rebelled, and the war of the Revolution was begun. On the first day of November, therefore, the church bells were solmenly tolled, flags floated at half-mast and business was everywhere suspended. All over the land such men as Samuel Adams, Patrick Henry, James Otis and John Adams addressed patriotic speeches to throngs of their countrymen, and fired their hearts with thoughts of a glorious independence.

The November of 1861 will ever be famous in our political history, because in that month, for the first and only time, two presidents were elected within these United States—Abraham Lincoln to rule in Washington and Jefferson Davis in Richmond.

To our neighbors across the Rio Grande November is as dear a month as July is to us, for on its sixth day, in 1813, the Mexicans proclaimed their independence of the crown of Spain, and formed the second greatest republic of the western hemisphere.

ACME BLACKING is cheaper at 20 cents a bottle than any other Dressing at 5 cents.

A LITTLE GOES A LONG WAYS

because shoes once blackened with it can be kept clean by washing them with water. People in moderate circumstances find it profitable to buy it at 20c. a bottle, because what they spend for Blacking they save in shoe leather.

It is the cheapest blacking considering its quality, and yet we want to sell it cheaper if it can be done. We will pay for a recipe that will enable us to make WOLFF'S ACME BLACKING at such a price that a retailer can profitably sell it at 10c. a bottle. This offer is open until Jan. 1st, 1893.

$10,000 Reward

MRS. GRAHAM'S
Cucumber and
Elder Flower Cream

Is not a cosmetic in the sence in which that term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind and prevents sunburn and freckles and blackheads will never come while you use it. It clears the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old, ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali, and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00. Ask your druggist for it.

SAMPLE BOTTLE mailed free to any lady on receipt of 10 cents in stamps to pay for postage and packing. Lady Agents wanted.

LONG AGO.

Grandpa told me all about it,
Surely, then, I should not doubt it,
How he courted dear old grandma
Long ago.
Says her charms did surely take him,
And a willing captive make him;
Yet, when he told her this, he knows
She blushed like a crimson rose,
Long ago.

He says her hair was bright and sunny,
Rosy cheeks, too—oh, how funny—
Grandma once a pretty girly,
Long ago.
Now, gray hairs peep from 'neath her cap,
And every day she takes a nap;
Yet dear old grandpa can't forget
When she was once his pride and pet,
Long ago.

And he often thinks about it,
So he says—and can I doubt it,
How he loved this gentle maiden
Long ago?
Though silver hair now crowns her head,
And wrinkles o'er the fair face spread,
He says she's dearer to him now
Than when they pledged that solemn vow
Long ago.

Lovingly they've walked together,
Through bright as well as stormy weather;
Keeping vows they each had made
Long ago.
But their rest is near at hand,
Soon they'll reach a better land;
Reach a mansion bright and fair,
Which their Father did prepare
Long ago.

Russia has just lost by death its richest citizen, Prince Jussopoff, whose possessions are estimated at $250,000,000. His title and wealth will go to his daughter's husband, who was a poor lieutenant when the girl fell in love with him, and he was adopted by the prince, according to Russian law.

The tools used by a blacksmith of the present day are almost identical with those used in the same trade over three hundred years ago. On the estate of the Marquis de la Laguna, in Spain, a water wheel of twenty-horse power runs a dynamo. Plowing by electricity has been proposed, and the current is to be transmitted to a field three miles distant, where a motor on a plow is to be operated. The cable to be attached to the plow is to be wound on a reel and drawn over the field.

The lines of the Roundbay electric tramways at Leeds, England, which were put in operation on October 20, is equipped with the electrical system and apparatus of an American company; the cars were built in New York and the engine in the power station was built in Auburn, N. An interesting historical relic has just been brought into prominence by changing hands. It is the handcuffs which Sir Wm. Wallace wore when being conveyed to London for execution. Attached thereto is this legend: "Part of the fetters in which Sir Wm. Wallace was sent to London, July 9, 1305. Sent as an insult by Edward to Sir William's aunt, Miss Jane Wallace, who lived at Benaly, and, dying, caused it to be buried on a hill-top there, where it was dug up July 9, 1835, exactly 530 years after."

A missionary in Bengal has been doing the opium dens in the town of Rampore Bauseah. Most of the smokers he saw belonged to the laboring classes. With one accord the smokers told him that the drug dried up their bodies and that their craving for it was such that they could not give it up. Many of the dens have a hundred patrons a day. The missionary says opium smoking in India is bringing ruin and degradation upon innumerable families, and he accuses the British government of fostering this demoralizing habit.

There has been a big boom in the egg export business from New Brunswick. Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia to the United States this year. Prince Edward island has shipped to Boston over 640,000 dozens by one steamship line alone, which is greatly in excess of the total shipments last year, and has also sent immense quantities by other steamship routes and by rail to the United States. The dominion as a whole sends us very large quantities of eggs, but the McKinley bill has acted against the industry somewhat, and heavy shipments have been made to England from Ontario and Quebec. For some reason prices have run up very high lately, and Prince Edward island egg raisers have been making money.

FAST RIDING.

AROUND THE WORLD IN THIRTY DAYS.

Peculiarities and Possibilities of Travel as Related by Commercial Salesmen.

The following from the Pittsburg Dispatch will be of interest to Toledo people, inasmuch as the Pennsylvania lines extend to this city, forming a direct route to and from points in the east:

A group of traveling salesmen were enjoying themselves in the lobby of a downtown hotel the other evening in that pastime peculiar to the jovial commercial traveler, telling stories. The narration of amusing incidents had drifted to a discussion of the number of miles traveled and the amount of money expended by a salesman in a year. The figures given are interesting and show that situations as traveling salesman are not all sunshine in view of the fact that during 10 years' service one entire year is spent on railway trains, in which period a distance of 182,000 miles, equal to over seven times the distance around the world, is traveled, to say nothing of the hurry and inconvenience incident to early rising to catch trains. This computation is based on the consideration that salesmen as a rule cover an average of 50 miles per day the year 'round. Each one of the seven drummers in the group exhausted about twenty 1,000-mile tickets per annum, which would give an average of nearly 55 miles per day for 365 days, although the seasons for work do not extend throughout the entire year.

"Allowing 20 1,000-mile tickets as the average," said the representative of a New York dry goods firm, figuring on the fly-leaf of an order book, "the yearly bill for transportation amounts to $400. Hotel bills and sundries will swell the total to something like $1,500 per year, making a grand total of $15,000 expended in ten years, equal to a daily expenditure of $7.50, as none of us work over 200 days in a year. Now figure in wearing apparel, and you have a sum not much short of $8 per day for individual expenses. Idon't believe there's another class of working people who spend that much money for personal expenses."

"Well, gentlemen," spoke up the senior of the group, a hale looking gentleman beyond the meridian of life, "those figures are pretty reliable. At least I've found them so in over a quarter of a century's service on the road. In that time I've seen all sorts of accommodations, from the very limited ones afforded by a cross-roads tavern to the luxury of a $6 per day hotel; have been tortured by riding over rickety railroads, which shook a fellow up so that it was difficult to stay in his clothes. I have also enjoyed riding in luxury in the most modern vestibule flyers, as I've been over about every piece of railroad in this country. The fastest and most comfortable riding I ever experienced was a few weeks ago. I had just arrived at St. Louis, and as I was registering at the hotel the clerk handed me a telegram. I found it to be a message from my wife, who wired that our youngest daughter was seriously ill at our home in New York. I didn't wait for breakfast at the hotel after I learned that a through train for the east departed from St. Louis over the Vandalia and Pennsylvania lines at 7:30 o'clock, only a few minutes after the receipt of the telegram. I made that train, and after sleeping in Missouri I had breakfast in the dining car as the train was passing through Illinois; took dinner while the train was going through Indiana and supper in the diner while we were in Ohio, in which state I retired to my berth and awoke in Pennsylvania. I arose in time for breakfast in that state and was at home in New York in time to take dinner with my family. You see, I ate four meals in as many different states after sleeping in a fifth, and all within 30 hours, it being 7:30 a. m. when I left St. Louis and 1:30 p. m. when I reached New York, 1,100 miles away. Bessie, my daughter, had only a slight attack of illness, but her mother, like all women anxious about her little ones, telegraphed me to come home, although the physician in attendance said it was not necessary.

"As my presence was not required in New York, and being behind on my trip, I started back at once in order to be in Chicago as soon as possible. I caught the vestibule train, the Columbian express, out of New York, over the Pennsylvania railroad at 4 p. m., and had supper in the dining car while going through Pennsylvania; ate breakfast in Ohio and dinner in Indiana in the diner, and was in Chicago at my hotel in time for supper, making over 900 miles on that run. Now, then, here's my record: Slept in Missouri, got breakfast in Illinois, ate dinner in Indiana, supper in Ohio, slept in Ohio and Pennsylvania, had breakfast in Pennsylvania and dinner in New York with my family, supper in Pennsylvania on the train, breakfast in Ohio, dinner in Indiana, also on the train, and supper in Illinois, traveled over 2,000 miles and did not get off the train or change cars except the one time when under my own roof at dinner with my family in New York. The distance traveled—over 2,000 miles—was covered in exactly 56 hours. At that pace one can go around the world in less than 30 days."

"But," ventured one of the interested auditors, "it should be borne in mind that in that instance the trip was made on the standard railway of America, the direct route between St. Louis and the east, and between New York and Chicago, advantages which make fast traveling permissible. Another thing to be considered is the rapidity with which improvements for facilitating travel have been developed in the past few years, a contemplation of which leads to the conclusion that in days soon to come the method of transportation will be as marvelous as they are unique. Aerial navigation seems to be the fertile field of the present day for inventive genius, and evidences of her remarkable achievements will, no doubt, soon be seen in the air. Just imagine yourself going through space like a bird. One hundred miles an hour will be a snail's pace compared to the velocity possible for a flying contrivance. Until a fellow got the hang of the thing it would be a little bit awkward to be rigged out with a machine in which you could stand in New York and by pulling a string drop down in Chicago in a few hours. Such a machine would be a damper on the rain-maker's occupation, as it would do away with the use of explosives. Whenever a rain would be needed some one could start skyward in a flying machine and by puncturing a rain cloud let down a shower."

"I've got a better scheme than bombarding the heavens for the purpose of producing rain," calmly remarked one of the group.

"Let's have it."

"Send up balloons laden with horse-radish. It would make the heavens weep."

IN OTHER SKIES.

I went across the snowy field,
An eerie wind swept whistling by,
Far off a church bell slowly pealed,
Then silence filled the hollow sky,
As if the daylight held its breath—
The very seal and soul of death.

So late the sparrow's pipe did drown
Murmur of leaves and wash of air,
The bluebird shook a measure down,
The robin whistled everywhere,
The bobolink's wild spurt of song
Bubbled and sparkled all day long.

So late from coverts of the wood—
Stars trembling, flowing waters still—
The spirit of the solitude
Sang soft, sang far, the whippoorwill,
And thrushes made the glad tears start,
While dim strange joy half broke my heart.

So late, so late, from every bough
Mad music troubling far and near
As if the sunshine sang, and now
The frost of empty silence here!
So might a dead world sink and swoon
Beyond the dark side of the moon!

Oh, songs of unforgotten moods,
In joyance whither have you flown?
Within what sweeter latitudes,
On what serener breezes blown?
Upon what bloom, what golden bough,
Oh, singers, do you warble now?

Within what other heaven showers
The lavish measure of your tune?
Are other skies more soft than ours?
Are other skies more fair than June?
All crystal safe from sun or drouth,
Is there a land more south than south?

—Harriet Prescott Spofford, in Harper's Bazar.

"At last, I can eat a good square meal without its distressing me!" was the grateful exclamation of one whose appetite had been restored by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, after years of dyspeptic misery. A teaspoonful of this extract before each meal sharpens the appetite.

CATHOLIC DOINGS.

A New Archbishop and Five Bishops To Be Appointed.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 7.—A new archbishop and five new bishops are due to the Catholic church of this country, according to the late council of prelates in this city, and appointments are soon to come from Rome.

An arch diocese is to be established at Dubuque, Iowa, and Bishop Hennessey of that place is to be the archbishop. Bishops will be appointed for Des Moines and Sioux City, Ia., Monterey, Cal.; St. Joseph, Mo., and Concordia, Kan. Des Moines and Sioux has objected to such appointment, and the bishops do not feel like forcing one on him.

The priests of each diocese will select three names to be sent to Rome, and the selection will then be made of the new bishops. Monsignor O'Brien, of the papal household, who comes to this country to be present at the golden jubilee, will start for Europe on Tuesday. He will bear with him church papers relative to the new church appointments.

TROUBLES IN THE SOUTH.

Honduras Again in a State of Turmoil.

Mexico's Divorce Law Under Discussion—News of Importance Wired to Readers of the Bee.

City of Mexico, Dec. 7.—Information received in this city that the wires between the City of Guatemala and Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, have been cut by the insurgents. No news can be obtained from that section, but it is believed that the insurgents are gaining ground.

Mexico's divorce bill is now being discussed in congress, and it being a national issue, some of the greatest orators in Mexico will speak. Deputy Juan A. Materos, who introduced the bill, spoke in its favor.

A boiler exploded in the San Francisco mine at Sombrele, Tuesday, killing five men outright and wounding nine more. The engineer's negligence was the cause of the accident.

Salvidor Roderiquez, charge d'affaires of Salvador, in Mexico, has requested the military authorities to detail a number of Mexican army officers for service in the Salvadorean army. The minister of war has complied with his request.

Miguel Terrozas, chief of police of Pueblo, was shot Thursday in the back by an assassin, who took refuge behind a door to do his bloody work. The wound is dangerous and his recovery is not expected.

A telegram was received here to-day stating that Messenger Tanneborg, of the Wells-Fargo Express company, had disappeared and a sum of money was missing. Inquiry at the company's office was meagre. One statement was to the effect that the messenger had taken a package containing $10,000 and fled with it. Another statement that the messenger's body had been found with evidence of death by violence upon it. Tanneborg was formerly a sergeant in the United States army.

A RABBI IN JAIL.

He Was a Legal Mill All By Himself.

He Married People, Granted Them Divorces and Pointed the Way to Heaven, All for Five Dollars.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Rabbi Abraham Alperstein teaches 10 persons how to get to heaven in a little room which he calls his church at 40 O'Brien street.

The rabbi does more than preach and pray. He marries persons, and, what is more, he separates married couples—grants them divorces—for the modest sum of $5.

Nobody has objected to the rabbi for performing the sacrament of matrimony, but it is different with the divorcing, and for this latter Mr. Alperstein was arrested and brought before Justice Eberhardt.

The case was continued until Wednesday, when he will be ready, he says, to answer the charge of assuming powers which have been supposed to belong to the judges.

FOUND THE HEAD.

Isaac Sawtelle Seems to Have Told the Truth Once.

Great Falls, N. H., Dec. 7.—The head of Hiram Sawtelle has been found at a point indicated by Isaac, who killed him.

A mound of earth was found covered by a pile of brush. Upon digging into the mound a roll of underclothing was found. Wrapped in a linen shirt and fragments of an undershirt was found a human skull. Not a trace of the features remained.

An examination of the skull showed a hole in the back of the left ear, apparently made by a bullet. The skull is in possession of Lawyer Edgerly, and will be produced at the hearing to corroborate Sawtelle's claim that the murder was done in Maine.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Tiffin, O., Dec. 7.—Frank Gottwalles, a prominent citizen of the western part of this county, entered suit for $10,000 damages in the Seneca county common pleas court against Jacob Flechtner, a wealthy Fostorian. An old grudge between the men culminated in a resort to blows in a New Riegel saloon last week, in which Gottwalles was assaulted and terribly injured.

THWARTED HIS SCHEME.

Tiffin, O., Dec. 7.—Wm. Gorby tried to abduct Miss Alice McManus Saturday. He forced her, at the point of a revolver, to get on a railway train, but friends wired ahead and a policeman rescued her, but Gorby escaped.

NEGROES ON A SHOOT.

A Crap Game Breaks Up in a Bloody Battle.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 7.—Whisky flowed freely among the negro miners at Compton mines Saturday night. After midnight the game of craps broke up in a row and a gentral shooting scrape. Every light in the camp was put out and every pistol or rifle brought into service, and civil war followed among the drunken negroes.

The shooting was kept up until daylight. Seventy-five negroes engaged in the fight, and fired over 1,000 shots. Ten colored men, names unknown, are said to have been killed or wounded in the fray.

AGAINST TWO YEAR SERVICE.

Paris, Dec. 7.—The French army commanders have reported against the system of two year's service.

SHIPPING DAMAGED BY STORM.

London, Dec. 7.—Shipping at Montevideo has been much damaged by a storm.

THE AGE OF MUSCLE.

This is it undoubtedly. Never before in the history of the race did the cultivation of muscle receive such universal attention and encouragement. Even the gentler sex practices every branch of calisthenics affected by the trousered gender. This, of course, is well, for exercise is an essential of health. But to the feeble, the nervous and the dyspeptic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords a guaranty of primal vigor upon which a superstructure of muscularity may advantageously be built. Most genial and speedy of tonics, it is also the most thorough of regulators, entirely rectifying errors of digestion and bilious secretion, and promoting a healthy habit of body. It conquers and prevents intermittent and bilious remittent fever, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble. The aged, infirm and convalescing derive immeasurable benefit from its use; it imparts a hearty relish for food and overcomes insomnia.

You can't believe some dealers always. They want to sell the medicine that pays them the largest profit. What you want to buy is the one that does you the most good. Which one is it? Sometimes, it may be a matter of doubt. But in the case of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, there's no room for doubt. It's a matter that can be proved.

With the facts before you, it's an insult to your intelligence to have something else offered as "just as good."

And here's the proof: Among all the medicines that claim to cure woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities, and diseases, the "Favorite Prescription" is the only one that's guaranteed.

If it doesn't do all that's claimed for it, if it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you'll have your money back.

There's strength and vigor for every tired and feeble woman, health and a new life for every delicate and ailing woman—and if there's no help, there's no pay.

The Tarrytown Suicide Again Recalled

In a Manner Reflecting on Edward M. Field.

Was He Responsible for the Death of the Girl Who So Long Was Supposed to be the Vivacious Dolly Davis?

New York, Dec. 7.—There were no new developments in the failure of Field, Lindley, Wiechers & Co., to-day.

Anent of the failure of Field, Lindley, Wiechers & Co., the Evening World prints the following story, which is the first public expression of a suspicion that has been prevalent for some time:

"Investigation into the past life of Edward M. Field, consequent upon the financial wreck of his firm and his honored father, together with his own disgrace and alleged madness, has recalled a tragedy of not long ago with which his name was connected. That was at Tarrytown on June 20 last, when the body of a beautiful young woman was found in the Hudson at Croton Landing. Attached to the gown of the drowned girl was a paper, on which was written:

"'I am sick and tired of life, and if my body is to be found I would like to be buried in the Tarrytown cemetery.

'M. E. J.'

"On one finger was a circlet of twisted iron wire, and a similar one was found on her wrist. Despite the initials, 'M. E. J.,' many people of Tarrytown, to which village the body was removed, positively identified the body as that of Dolly Davis, a vivacious variety actress and dancer, who had lived with her foster father, J. Charles Davis, in Tarrytown for years.

"It was not till June 23, when Dolly Davis herself peered into the face of her double in the undertaker's shop, that people were satisfied of their mistake. That day a prosperous-looking young man, who said his name was Frank Atwood and that he came from Cleveland, appeared at the undertaker's carrying a lisping baby girl in his arms. He identified the suicide as his lost wife, and told a story that wrung the hearts of those who heard it regarding the wife who had deserted him and her baby two years before, and how he had wandered up and down the land in quest of her.

"'Atwood,' however, proved to be a half madman, the lisping baby had been stolen on the way to Tarrytown by him and finally he turned out to be Victor George Herdling, of this city.

"Then certain good people of Tarrytown came forward and stated that they had seen the suicide prostrated on a tiny grave in the old Sleepy Hollow cemetery, weeping as if her heart would break. That was the day before the body of the suicide was found.

"A careful search in the cemetery discovered a gold ring and a gold bracelet on the grave of a baby boy, buried there six years before. Then it came out that the dead woman was Marie Eugenie Josephine Arigasea, a young French woman who had been a member of the household of Edward M. Field at Tarrytown for several years. The baby boy on whose little grave she had cast her rings was her own. She had faithfully kept the secret of its paternity during its short life, had wept away in bitter tears her last earthly hope, and had carried her burden to the fathomless beyond.

"In 1883 she first came to live with the Fields as an expert seamstress. She was an attractive, stylish young woman. She did not appear much in public, but when she did pass through the streets of Tarrytown she was the observed of all observers because her of beauty and elegant carriage.

"A little more than six years ago she left the Field home, and gossip said that it was because of her condition. She went to her mother, who is one of an old and honored family in Paris, and there her baby boy was born. She called him Eugene Duval, but when she refused to disclose who was the baby's father her mother turned her away from home.

"Marie returned to America, and one day with her babe in her arms she knocked at Mr. Field's door.

"She was taken in. Baby was given in charge of the wife of the gardner, but he soon sickened and died. Faithfully the poor mother visited the little grave for years, till one day she disappeared again. She found a refuge in New York, where she lived in a boarding house in West Forty-second street.

"No one ever visited her there, and she rarely went out. She had not been seen in Tarrytown for some weeks till that Friday, June 19, when she surrendered to her despair on the grave of her child. Next day her body was plucked from the river.

"Then it was discovered that Marie Eugenie Josephine Arigasea was again about to become a mother. When the coroner took charge of her body he placed it in charge of Undertaker Charles Vanderbilt of Tarrytown. Dr. R. B. Coultant, Field's family physician, told Vanderbilt he would pay all expenses, and Coultant did pay the bill.

"A friend of Vanderbilt said he did not know where the funeral money came from, but he suspected it was paid indirectly by Field, through Coultant. It is known that Eugenie destroyed several papers and letters before she left her boarding house the last time.

"The fragments were gathered up and sent to Chief of Police Nossiter of Tarrytown. Among them he found a bill from Tiffany & Co. for a gold watch, which had been bought for her and charged to the account of E. M. Field.

"Chief Noisster said to a reporter that the coroner refused to allow him to examine the contents of the dead girl's trunk, and that any information as to the identity of her betrayer which might have been found there was kept in that way from the police. The chief is also of the belief that the man Atwood was employed by some person to get possession of the body and bury it in such a manner as to prevent further investigation, and Nossiter did not feel called upon to prosecute the seach at his own charge."

GET THE GENUINE.

If you suffer with lame back, especially in morning, Allcock's Plasters are a sure relief.

If you cannot sleep, try an Allcock Plaster, well up between the shoulder blades—often relieves—sometimes cures. Try this before you resort to opiates.

If any of your muscles are lame—joints stiff—feel as if they wanted oiling—or if you suffer with any local pains or aches, these plasters will cure you.

If you use them once you will realize why so many plasters have been made in imitation of them. Like all good things they are copied as closely as the law allows. Don't be duped by taking an imitation when it is as easy to get the genuine.

If you always insist upon having Allcock's Porous Plasters and never accept a substitute you will not be disappointed.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

London, Dec. 7.—A dispatch from the correspondent of the Times at Santiago de Chili says that Gen. Castilli has declined to be reappointed governor of the Brazilian province of Rio Grande do Sul, and that the nationalists' troops are gradually being disarmed.

Tranquility, according to the same correspondent, is being slowly but surely restored to Brazil.

HIGH ROYAL MIX.

London, Dec. 7.—The suit for divorce by the actress Florence St. John against her husband Marius Duplancy has begun. A counter-suit is pending by Duplancy against his wife. Both charge adultery. Messrs. Cohen & Marks, of the Financial News, are mentioned as co-respondents in the husband's suit. The testimony is of an indecent character.

MADHOUSE VICTIMS.

Different Members of the Field Family Who are Insane.

New York, Dec. 7.—The confinement of Edward M. Field in an insane asylum makes three members of the family who have been declared insane.

Four years ago Field's sister Alice acted so strangely that an experienced attendant was engaged to see that she did not harm herself. She succeeded, however, in getting away from the attendant late one night and the next morning the family discovered she had disappeared. It was five days before she was found several hundred miles from New York.

She had taken a train to Buffalo and from there had gone to Niagara Falls. She had engaged rooms at one of the hotels near the Falls and was living quietly enough when discovered. "She told her friends when they came to see her that she could not sleep unless she was in hearing distance of the roar of the Falls," said a gentleman yesterday who is familiar with Alice Field's case. "She insisted upon remaining at Niagara and her wishes were gratified. But when she began to talk about throwing herself over the falls and about people disappearing forever in the whirlpool, the family thought it about time to confine her in an asylum. The legal steps were taken and without the knowledge of the public Alice Field disappeared and is still an inmate of a mad house. Her case is probably a hopeless one. The other unfortunate member of the Field family who also at one time was declared insane is a cousin of Edward Field. I do not wish to give his name or his exact family connections because he has been pronounced cured and is not confined in any institution at the present time."

GO AND SIN NO MORE.

Pretty Josie Roach Released From Prison.

A Touching Story From the Kentucky Pen.

An Elopement That Ended in Conviction for Horse Stealing—Gov. Brown Saves the Girl From Doing Time.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 7.—A pathetic scene was witnessed at the big gate leading to the state penitentiary at Frankfort. Josie Roach, a pretty girl, not yet 16 years old, had been sentenced to serve a term for horse stealing.

Nothing in her mien or attractive features indicated that she was a convict sentenced to serve two years at hard labor. Yet that was the crime of which an Ohio county jury had found her guilty yesterday morning.

The girl was not alone in her misfortune, for with her was Elijah Crow, who is to serve two years for the same offence. The cases are identical, in that both girl and boy stole the same horse.

There is an unusual story of romance connected with the youthful convicts. When a mere baby Josie was taken ruthlessly from her home and left among strangers. She does not remember the circumstances, but has since learned that she was carried away by a roving band of people to whom she had been given.

Brought to Kentucky from her Missouri home, she was reared on a farm one mile from Fordsville, Ohio county.

Not far distant lived Elijah Crow, six years her senior. More than a year ago an attachment sprang up between them. They wanted to wed, but there were objections and the young couple were compelled to meet in secret. Last June they decided to marry at all risks and plans were made to that effect.

One little mistake in the plans is what sent them to the penitentiary. The day of the elopement arrived. They started on foot to the depot at Fordsville, but the train had gone five minutes before they arrived. A serious question confronted them. Crow told the girl that he must go to Spring Lick, in Grayson county, by all means, and he guided her to an old sawmill two miles from Fordsville. Here he told her to wait until his return.

In an hour he rode up on a horse which he had stolen. Josie was lifted behind him and they continued their journey toward Spring Lick. After their arrival there the horse was sold.

The girl wanted to go at once to a minister and have the marriage performed, but Crow said that, after thinking the matter over, they had better not marry. He had ruined her, and she determined to make her way home. All that night she walked, covering a distance of 12 miles. Crow was determined not to leave her, and he also walked.

The next day they were met by an officer, who told them that they were his prisoners. They were taken back to Ohio county and were in jail there until Saturday morning. At the trial the girl protested that she did not know that her lover had stolen the horse, but the jury decided that she was equally guilty, and the couple were given the same sentence. When Governor Brown heard the story he immediately granted a pardon to the girl. It was so pathetic that it brought tears to the eyes of the guard as he read it.

The governor indorsed on the papers in the case the following: "Josie Roach, a white girl from Ohio county, was this date confined in the penitentiary under judgment for horse stealing.

"The facts as represented to me are that she was persuaded from home under promise of marriage by one Crowe, who, on the trip they made feloniously appropriated a horse which he sold for $5 and gave Josie the money.

"She was only 16 years old. She was evidently under the influence of Crowe and if she has violated the law her youth and sex commend her to executive clemency. Let her go and sin no more. A pardon is granted."

THE WAY TO GO.

You have seen California frequently mentioned in newspapers and magazines. Perhaps a friend has been there and writes enthusiastic letters back home about the climate and the fruits. It makes you anxious to see the country for yourself.

The time to go is in the fall and winter. Then work here is least pressing and California climate is most pleasing. The way to go is via Santa Fe route, on one of that line's popular, personally-conducted parties, leaving Chicago every Saturday evening and leaving Kansas City every Sunday morning.

Special agents and porters in attendance. Pullman tourist sleepers are used, furnished with bedding, mattresses, toilet articles, etc. Second-class tickets honored. Write to Geo. E. Gilman, Michigan Passenger Agent Santa Fe route, for folder describing these excursions.

STOLE HER OWN CHILDREN

Another Kidnaping Successfully Executed.

Mrs. Teresa Martin Startles Her Former Friends.

A Once Beautiful Woman Whose Love for the Negro Coachman Caused a Family to be Broken Up in Indiana.

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 7.—A kidnaping has occurred here, and the abductor and abducted have so far escaped the authorities, although a trace of them has been obtained.

One morning last week there arrived in the city Teresa Martin. She went directly to a livery stable, hired a horse and buggy and asked for a driver. A colored man was furnished, and she asked to be driven to the vicinity of the Independence school building.

When the school was dismissed Mrs. Martin went to the stile and scanned the faces of the children as they passed out.

She was in search of two children of her own, and as they approached the exit she called them to her, kissed them and took them to the buggy, telling them she would take them riding.

The driver was given instructions and drove to Ravensted, 18 miles from here, where she caught a train and went on to Louisville.

The children kidnaped are a girl 11 years and a boy 8 years of age. Their father is connected with the Reitz sawmill. Martin and his wife were divorced three years ago, and the children were given to the father, it being claimed that the mother was not fit to be trusted with the education of children.

Teresa Martin was a beautiful woman five years ago. At that time she became enamored of a negro named Nelson employed by her husband. Her infatuation was so complete that she actually deserted her husband and children. Mr. Martin tried every way to reclaim her but failed, and he then secured a divorce and the custody of the children.

LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

The largest elevators for carrying passengers in the world have just been completed on the banks of the Hudson, near Weehawken, says Harper's Weekly. The high table-land in New Jersey, opposite New York city, and between the Hudson river and the Hackensack, has up to this time not been used as generally for purposes of pleasure and residence as it should have been. This elevated plain, known as the Palisades, is at its beginning some one hundred and fifty feet above high tide, and is over a mile wide at the same point. It stretches north for many miles up the Hudson river, and naturally rises in elevation as it proceeds. This high land has been accessible only by steep grades for wagon roads, and by means of stairways which climb laboriously up the steep cliff. The Hudson County railway company, which operates the elevated road at Hoboken and controls many of the street car lines in that neighborhood, has of late years been extending these lines and increasing the facilities for getting on top of the Palisades and from one part of this high plateau to another. The most recent addition to the plant of this company has been the building of huge elevators at Weehawken, where the ferryboats from Forty-second and Jay streets, New York city, discharge their passengers, and where also the West Shore railway starts north and west to Albany and Buffalo. These elevators are the largest ever constructed for passengers, and in planning them the engineers have adopted new devices to secure their safety against accidents. From the elevators, which rise just from the water's edge, there is an immense viaduct, or elevated railroad, which runs some 800 feet back to the hill, where connections will be made with the various steam and horse cars which run in one direction and another.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles

The Markets.

London wheat market quiet and rather easier; corn turn dearer. English and French country markets very slow, and occasionally cheaper. Weather very wet. Liverpool wheat firm; corn shade cheaper.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,044,606 bu, compared with 658,805 bu on the same day last year.

The New York Financial Chronicle reports gross earnings of 88 roads for the third week in November increased 7.36 per cent. Twenty-six roads for the fourth week increased $343,672, or 7.14 per cent.

Business failures in the United States and Canada for the week were 330, against 297 the previous week, and 312 for the corresponding week in 1890.

Chicago Bulletin—The receipts of hogs at Chicago for the week were 307,968—the largest on record. The largest receipts previously were 300,488 for the week ending November 20, 1884. Chicago is drawing supplies of hogs from all sections, and the increase in packing of the west is exclusively at this point.

A petition was circulated on 'Change today to adjourn the board of trade from Thursday, December 24, until Monday morning, December 28.

Our Pork Can Now Enter France.—Paris, Dec. 5.—The Journal Official today publishes a decree authorizing the import of American pork into France. The ports of entry, however, are limited, and importations can be made only at Dunkirk, Havre, Bordeaux and Marseilles.

The shipments of wheat from India last week equaled 1,080,000 bu. Previous week 800,000 bu. Since April 1, the commencement of the crop year, 43,018,000 bu, compared with 19,320,000 bu in the corresponding period in 1890.

Seed Market.

The receipts of this commodity at Toledo last week were 2,379 bags, shipments 2,180 bags. In the corresponding week in 1890 the receipts were 2,231 bags, shipments 1,056 bags. Since Sept. 1 to Dec. 5 receipts have been 39,173 bags, and the shipments 18,849 bags.

The exports from New York for the week ending Nov. 28 were 4,071 bags, and since Sept. 1 to same date 25,570 bags, compared with 24,297 bags in the corresponding period in 1890.

Baltimore Seeds.—There is some foreign inquiry but at prices too low for the present market, which is very strong unchanged figures. No report of exports.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 385,801 bu in excess of the corresponding Monday in 1890.

The export clearances Saturday from four Atlantic ports were 329,294 bu of wheat, and flour to an aggregate of 400,000 bu. Export of corn, 47,634 bu, and of oats, 54,904 bu.

English markets as reported herein are dull and without change in quotations for wheat, and a shade better for corn.

We call attention to Bradstreets statement herein of stocks of wheat at all important points in the world, and the increase in November and October. It seems very much as though America was the source of supply, since we have exported about one hundred million bushels in flour and wheat.

The Minneapolis Market Record says that the great snow storm may delay, but in the end will not suspend receipts of wheat. There are enough loaded cars along the rail lines to supply them for some time. In addition there are ten million bushels of wheat in the elevators to draw upon as soon as needed.

The whaleback "Wetmore" has capped the climax of the new departure in shipbuilding by arriving safe at San Francisco in 106 days from Philadelphia. All hail the whaleback system.

New York says there are 3,000,000 bus of oats sold there for export in December. Where do you expect to get them with only 300,000?

Cable from St. Petersburg says the government is arresting traders who have adulterated flour, and cornered rye frauds on the poor.

Great difficulty is experienced in moving Kansas corn by scarcity of cars. It is stated that all the roads are short of cars.

Wheat has been firm to-day on this side of the ocean, and at one time it was 1c to 1 1-8c higher at Chicago. By the naked eye it is not discoverable upon what to base the advance. It is not quite the time of year to bull the wheat market, but let us accept small favors whenever tendered in this line, with thanks, and greater ones, later, in proportion.

The program relied upon by the bulls just now is an expected unfavorable report from the government on the growing wheat crop. We all know the condition of the crop now, and Mr. Dodge will no more rectify it. It is weak, but improving, and with good weather henceforth will make a crop. Of course the rate of condition is far lower than in December, 1890.

When it became known that the visible wheat had decreased 1,000,000 bu, prices made a further advance, not all of which was maintained, but the tone of the market is strong. The visible supply table takes no account of wheat on the rail, and it is in that respect misleading, but perhaps it cannot be avoided.

Corn.—In New York the December future has largely advanced, and the list is all firm and higher east and west. In New York December wheat closed 1c and May 3-4c higher. December corn 4c, and May 1-2c higher. December oats 5-8c higher.

In Chicago December wheat and May wheat closed 1c up. December corn 1-2c and May 3-8c up. December oats 1-8c up.

In Toledo the trading in wheat futures has been quite light, and what little was reported was in the May deal. Orders to buy or sell were scarce, and the trade is of an uninteresting character. Prices are 5-8c better at the close. On the call May sold at $1.02. After the call at $1.02@1.02 7-8, closing at $1.02 3-4.

Cash wheat was in a little better request, but the business was light. No. 2 soft sold at 95 1-4c to 95 3-4c and closed at 1-2c, a gain of 1-2c. No. 3 soft at 93 1-4c, and in the Wabash at 91 1-2c. Rejected No. 1 at 87c.

Corn—No. 2 for January at 44 3-4; No. 4 at 41 1-2c to 42c. No. 2 yellow at 48c. Nothing in oats. Rye—No. 2 at 91c.

Clover seed was higher and quite active. Prime for cash at $5.25; December at $5.15@5.25; July at $5.22 1-2@5.30; February at $5.35; March, $5.32 1-2, closing about $5.37 1-2@5.40; No. 2 at $5.10.

THE GRIND NOW ON

The Legislative Wheels Put in Motion,

And the Fifty-Second Congress is in Session.

Incidents and Scenes at the Opening.

No Choice for Speaker of the House.

Both Branches Meet and Take An Adjournment to To-Morrow—The Democratic Caucus Trying to Pick Out a Leader.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Two hours before the hour set for the convening of the Fifty-second congress the democratic members of the lower branch of that body met in the hall of the house for the purpose of selecting a candidate for speaker, pursuant to the adjournment taken after the protracted and fatiguing session of Saturday.

Ten o'clock is an early hour for the average member of congress, and those entitled to attend the caucus were slow in assembling.

Chairman Holman arrived at the house at 9:40, followed a few minutes later by Mr. Springer, who looked as happy and cheerful as ever and wore his everlasting rosebud in the lapel of his coat.

Judge Crisp was the next of the candidates on the ground and has occupied most of the time between his arrival and the hour that the caucus met in earnest conversation with Mr. Blount, one of his lieutenants.

Mr. Mills came to the capitol before the meeting of the caucus. He seemed bright and cheerful and did not show any signs of the partial prostration from which he suffered last night.

Messrs. McMillan and Hatch were also on the battlefield. All the speakership candidates occupied the headquarters in committee rooms on the floor of the house which were assigned to them on Saturday, and little knots of supporters, not members, gathered about each and gave his individual views of the situation as seen through spectacles colored in the light most favorable to his favorite.

There was practically no attempt made at missionary work before the caucus met. The various candidates had exhausted their resources yesterday in assaulting the line of each opponent, but without perceptible result and the democratic members entered the caucus without an inkling of what the day would bring forth.

The caucus was called to order by Chairman Holman shortly after ten o'clock and the roll call was answered to by 212 members, 15 less than attended the caucus of Saturday.

New arrivals kept coming in all the time, however, and swelled the number. Calling the roll on the 18th ballot was then begun.

Following are the official figures of the various ballots on both days, 17 ballots having been taken Saturday:

First ballot—Crisp 84, Mills 78, Springer 32, McMillan 18, Hatch 14, Stevens 1.

Second ballot—Crisp 89, Mills 80, Springer 28, McMillan 18, Hatch 11, Stevens 1.

Third ballot—Crisp 91, Mills 82, Springer 24, McMillan 18, Hatch 11, Stevens 1.

Fourth ballot—Crisp 93, Mills 87, Springer 20, McMillan 18, Hatch 8, Stevens 1.

Fifth ballot—Crisp 95, Mills 89, Springer 20, McMillan 18, Hatch 4, Stevens 1.

Sixth ballot—Crisp 95, Mills 89, Springer 20, McMillan 18, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Seventh ballot—Crisp 94, Mills 91, Springer 18, McMillan 18, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Eighth ballot—Crisp 94, Mills 91, Springer 17, McMillan 19, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Ninth ballot—Crisp 95, Mills 91, Springer 16, McMillan 19, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Tenth ballot—Crisp 94, Mills 90, Springer 17, McMillan 18, Hatch 5, Stevens 0.

Eleventh ballot—Crisp 93, Mills 89, Springer 16, McMillan 20, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Fifteenth ballot—Crisp 92, Mills 89, Springer 19, McMillan 17, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Sixteenth ballot—Crisp 94, Mills 91, Springer 17, McMillan 19, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Seventeenth ballot—Crisp 94, Mills 91, Springer 19, McMillan 17, Hatch 5, Stevens 1.

Eighteenth ballot—Crisp, 94; Mills, 90; Springer, 17; McMillin, 19; Hatch, 5; Stevens, 1. Total, 226.

Nineteenth ballot—Crisp, 94; Mills, 91; Springer, 17; McMillin, 19; Hatch, 5; Stevens, 1. Total, 227.

Terry, of Arkansas, who was absent on the eighteenth ballot, voted for Mills.

The caucus has adjourned until 2 p. m.

At It Once More.

Washington, 2:10—The democratic members of the house have just resumed their caucus.

Twentieth ballot—Crisp 92, Mills 90, Springer 17, McMillan 17, Hatch 5, Stevens 1. Total, 222.

Look for a Dark Horse.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(Special)—There is little if any possibility of either Crisp or Mills being nominated, to-day, at least. Mr. McMillan holds the balance of power and he is confident that sooner than turn his votes to Mills, Crisp would throw them to him, and vice versa.

There is considerable talk going the rounds that perhaps Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, will be the victorious dark horse.

The Ohio delegation is all here and the Crisp portion and Mills portion swear they will die fighting.

Inquiries at headquarters of the several candidates show that the fight for the chair is likely to be a prolonged one. No deal or combination they say, has been made, and each asserts that he is in the fight to stay and all express confidence in their friends to stand by them.

Congress in Session.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The senate at 1 p. m. adjourned until to-morrow at 12 o'clock.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The roll call of the house disclosed the presence of 326 members out of 332. Immediately after the roll call, at 12:30, on motion of Mr. Holman, the house adjourned until noon to-morrow.

WORTH KNOWING.

It often occurs in the various gas works of the city that men working in the retort houses are overcome by the fumes of gas and are in danger of asphyxiation. There is a uniform remedy for all such cases, and it never fails in 999 instances out of 1,000. As soon as a man exhibits symptoms of being affected by the gas he is promptly given a Seidlitz powder. This generates gas in the stomach, and as it is thrown off it carries with it the noxious coal gas which the patient has inhaled. Large supplies of the powders are always kept on hand at the different works for use in such emergencies.—Philadelphia Record.

MOULDING FACTORY BURNED.

Sunday Afternoon Blaze on Monroe Street.

Fire broke out shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Hannan block on the corner of Monroe and Erie streets and the departmeent was at once called out. The flames started in the fourth floor of the central store, occupied by the Lucas Moulding company, successors to the Toledo Picture Frame company. The fire obtained a good start and gave the firemen some lively work, but the flames were confined to the fourth floor and the roof. The entire stock, however, was badly damaged by smoke and water, and Adams & Kuhrt, the furniture dealers next to them, sustained slight damage from the smoke.

The damage to the moulding company will be about $15,000, with an insurance of $10,000. The damage to the building will be about $3,000, fully insured.

The firemen were obstructed considerably by the electric wires about the building, and were obliged to cut the street railway trolley wire. The end of this wire fell on the horses hitched to hook and ladder truck No. 1 and one of them was thrown to the ground and badly burned. Chief Wall also stepped on the end of the wire and received a shock which knocked him down, but did not injure him. The wire was then taken care of by the linemen before further damage was done.

BRICE TAKES THE OATH.

Sworn in As Senator From Ohio.

Sherman Refuses to Offer an Objection.

He Has Placed the Case in Such a Condition That if Foraker Wants the Seat He Must Do His Own Stealing.

Washington, Dec. 7.—During the presentation of credentials in the senate today Mr. Sherman, referring to the eligibility of Mr. Brice, as a senator from Ohio, said that before the oath of office was administered to Mr. Brice he desired to say that the belief was entertained by a large part of the citizens of Ohio that he was not a citizen of that state at the time of his election and therefore was not eligible.

He (Mr. Sherman) was satisfied Mr. Brice was entitled to be sworn in on his prima facie credentials. They were regular in form and therefore he should raise no objection to this being done. But he simply gave this notice so that Mr. Brice being sworn in should not be regarded as a waiver of the point raised by the people of Ohio that he was not a citizen of that state at the time of his election.

Mr. Hoar suggested that the contention was that Mr. Brice was not an "inhabitant" of Ohio and Mr. Sherman accepted the correction substituting the word "inhabitant" for "citizen."

Mr. Brice was then escorted to the desk and sworn in.

THEY PUSHED THE BUTTON

And the Whirring Dynamo Did the Rest.

Murderer Loppy's Life Burned Out at Sing Sing at Eight Minutes Past Twelve O'clock To-Day.

Sing Sing, Dec. 7.—Wife murderer Loppy has been electrocuted.

The execution room is in a temporary frame structure on the south side of the main building of the prison. There are two rooms in the little building—one the execution room and the other room where the autopsy will be held.

Dr. Carlos McDonald, on whom the responsibility of the executions of last June rested rather heavily, was interested in knowing that every wire was in place and that the current responded to the proper tests, the dynamo was run to test the current, and the volt meter on the switchboard on the south wall of the executioner's closet responded to a test of 2,000 volts.

Loppy had been preparing for death for several weeks. He has never ceased to protest his innocence of the crime of wife murder vith which he is charged, but he has had no hope of escaping the death penalty. He came to the prison a physical wreck; deaf, blind in one eye, and with his whole system shattered by drink.

The quiet prison life and the coarse, healthy prison fare have restored some of his vitality and cleared his besotted mind.

At 11:35 Loppy was notified that his death hour had arrived, and he was taken to the death chamber. The current was turned on, and at 12:08 he was pronounced dead.

U. S. COURT.

Decree Against Henry T. Niles for $17,608.

Mandate From the U. S. Supreme Court—Prisoners Arrested—Verdict in the Foll-Mackinaw Case.

Saturday evening Judge Ricks in the United States district court granted a decree in favor of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company against Henry T. Niles, of this city. The decree was granted on a mortgage held by plaintiff on about 1,100 acres of land in Oregon township amounting to $17,608.13. United State Marshal Wade was appointed special master, and the property and premises ordered sold to the best advantage.

A jury was empanelled in the case of John W. Foll vs. the C., J. & M. Railroad company, and a judgment was given defendant by default for $2,425.31. The claim was for material furnished.

Four prisoners were brought in this morning, and will appear before the court on trivial charges of violating the revenue laws: David Hornden and F. C. Hirb, of Oil City, are charged with selling liquor without a license. The violation was only technical, however; as they paid the tax to a notary public.

The case of Chas. C. Conroy vs. the Lima Oil company is still on trial.

EVERYBODY LOVES "DIXIE."

It has often been remarked that the familiar air of "Dixie" will elicit more applause here than any other piece of music that may be performed. A medley of national or patriotic airs will usually contain "Dixie," and that peculiar tune will be greeted with a degree of applause that quite throws everything else in the shade.

This fact is attributed to southern sentiment, but it is far from correct. The northern soldier sang "Dixie" and marched to "Dixie" in the great campaigns. Every union band used to play it and every union soldier has lightened the knapsack and accouterments by joining in the lively tune with his comrades. Besides this, "Dixie" is a lovely bit of music, and in the opinion of eminent composers is superior to almost all the national airs of the world—conspicuously to those of this country.

Don't let anybody make you believe that only southerners and southern sympathizers love "Dixie."—New York Herald.

RAT-HUNT ON 'CHANGE

This morning a cage containing several live rats was placed on the floor of the Produce Exchange and Mr. N. H. Swayne's lively little Irish terrier, "Jack," picked them out one at a time and there was any amount of fun. Sometimes a rat would make the circuit of the room before being killed and the scampering, kicking and shouting was amusing while the hunt lasted.

TO LOSE ANOTHER FACTORY.

Saturday Mr. Conger, of Akron, was in Toledo on a matter pertaining to the probable removal of a Toledo factory to Akron. Mr. Conger was in conference with Manager Cromwell, of the Toledo Bolt and Nut works, but neither gentlemen would give any information on the subject. A gentleman who knows tells the Bee that negotiations are pending for the removal of a certain institution, and it is not the Toledo Bolt and Nut works either.

WANTS THE COST OF REPAIRS.

D. Y. Howell sued John Kelly in common pleas court to-day to recover $254.99. According to the petition filed by the plaintiff, Howell & Son leased the stake driver Surprise and steam barge the Morning Star, to Kelly for a consideration, also that the boats should be returned in good condition. The plaintiff alleges that they were not returned in good condition, and that he expended the amount claimed to put them in good repair.

AIDING SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

Rev. C. N. Pond, superintendent of the Central District of the American Sunday School Union, is in the city. It is the general work of the union to plant and aid Sunday schools in places of actual destitution. "Last year," said Mr. Pond, "there was an average of five Sunday schools a day organized." Mr. Pond gave a talk at Trinity Sunday school and at St. John's M. E. church yesterday, and at the First Congregational church last night.

RECEPTION TO REV. D. M. FISK.

Arrangements have been perfected for the reception to Rev. D. M. Fisk, associate pastor of the First Congregational church, and Mrs. Fisk. The welcome will be extended on Wednesday evening in the church parlors, and will be under the direction of the Ladies' Working bands. Mr. and Mrs. Fisk have made many warm friends since their advent to Toledo, and a cordial invitation is extended to the congregation to be present on Wednesday night.

PERRYSBURGER KILLS HIMSELF.

Herbert Ford, a colored musician, 23 years old, Saturday night made an attempt to murder Clara Mills, a 14-year old colored girl living with her parents at 153 Clinton street, and then shot himself dead. Ford went to Detroit about five months ago from his parents' home at Perrysburg, Ohio, and has since earned his living by playing the piano at various places. Oil Ford's person was a letter addressed to his father, William Ford, at Perrysburg, telling him of his intention to kill himself and the girl.

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"

"You newspaper men should be more particular in getting up your flaming headlines. Just look at this in the Commercial:

A BIG SUNDAY BLAZE.
Destruction of the Toledo Moulding Co.'s Stock.

"Now, I happen to be the president of the Toledo Moulding company, and when I picked up the Commercial and read that $23,000 worth of our goods and chattels had gone up in smoke, well—it took away my appetite. Of course, upon reading the article I was relieved to find it was not ours, but the Lucas Moulding company that had burned."

The speaker was N. H. Swayne, and he did not look as if he had been frightened. The pleasing reaction after the first shock had evidently a tendency to settle his nerves.

THE T. S. E. I.

At the regular meeting of the Toledo Society of Economic Inquiry, in Steadman business college next Wednesday evening, matters of importance relative to the coming winter meetings of the society will be briefly discussed. A paper upon "The Postoffice Monopoly," as viewed by an Englishman, will be read by Mrs. A. P. Stevens, and the paper will be discussed by all present who desire to take part in such discussion. Everyone is invited.

WHY MR. SQUIRE WAS CALLED.

Saturday evening's Canton News-Democrat mentions the reasons for President Squire's visit to Major McKinley in the following paragraph:

President Squire, of Toledo, president of the Republican League clubs of Ohio, has been in Canton in close consultation with Major McKinley on the Ohio appointments. There are some 10,000 offices to be given to new men, and some of these places require men of a high order of intelligence. As the major is not very well acquainted in some localities, it is understood that President Squire was called in to give his advice, which he did without hesitation. There are so many good places, and so few real first class applicants that the major needed the advice of a sagacious and ripe man like President Squire.

THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH DEDICATION.

The new Third Baptist church was dedicated yesterday. The church is located on Wisconsin street, between Fifteenth and Division streets. It is an exceedingly pretty edifice and credit is due to the pastor, Rev. M. A. Dyer, and the congregation, for their efforts to build a church in so short a space of time, as it was not decided to build until last February. Through the kindness of the Baptist Union, the lot and $500 was given toward the new church. The church and furnishings cost $1,400, and all but $200 of that amount has been secured. Rev. L. D. Robinson preached the dedicatory sermon and was assisted in the exercises by Rev. D. M. Fisk, Rev. C. M. Gardner and Rev. O. D. Fisher. An offering of $193.79 was made for the benefit of the church.

A Good Doctor

MOTHER—NONE BETTER. See what she has in her favor. She's on the spot, she sees the first symptoms; she has sympathy. The little sufferer is bone of her bone and flesh of her flesh. Good points, every one. Add another—the right remedy—and you have as much certainty as can be had in this world that Baby will recover. Dr. Hand has provided the remedy. In Pennsylvania, where he is best known, almost every mother will testify to this. Happy, healthy children is the evidence they offer.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Bottom of the Sea—Our Irish Visitors.

The Bottom of the Sea will hold the boards at the People's theater all this week, and is sure to draw big houses. The great success of this piece is largely due to the unconventional theme and scenes that are not familiar to regular theater-goers.

The piece is an adaptation by William A. Brady, and the exigencies of the plot demand that a considerable portion of the action shall occur on and in Neptune's realm. Originally produced at the Porte St. Martin some 20 years ago, the spectacle has in many different forms been presented in almost every country under the sun. For years many attempts were made by theatrical managers to produce the spectacle in this country, but it has never been accomplished, owing, perhaps, to the great expense attached to such a scenic enterprise.

However, Messrs. Webster and Brady, who now have the spectacle in charge, produced the piece in New York, and were well rewarded for the risk taken. It has since been presented at the Globe theater, Boston, and in Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Providence, etc., and from reports that have reached here from these cities the criticisms are of the highest kind, pronouncing the spectacle a master work of stagecraft and ingenuity. It is on its merits as a scenic production to which the success of The Bottom of the Sea is mainly due.

Our Irish Visitors.

Thomas E. Murray and Frank Davis, two popular character comedians, will be at Wheeler's to-morrow night in Our Irish Visitors, the notable success of Murray & Murphy. This will be the seventh season of this farce comedy, and with Mr. Murray in his original creation of Major Gilhooley it is probably good for some seasons more. Frank Davis is also a particularly clever Irish comedian and will be seen as Jerry McGuiness. Two others whose work should contribute much to the entertainment are Will O. Petrie and Maggie Elise. The company also includes Ed. Sandford, Hattie Delaro Barnes, Katie Rooney, May Nugent, Helena Coe, and Janie Grey.
